CONGRESSIONAL TAX BATTLE HAS STARTED

TO BE FOUGHT ALONG MANY FRONTS SOON

SENATOR SMOOT AND SENATOR
HARRISON AS PARTY
MOUTHPIECES

SMOOT WANTS $300,000,000 RE-DUCTION, HARRISON HALF A BILLION

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 26.—The congressional tax battle has started,
with indications it will be fought along many political and legislative fronts from now until Christmas,
and perhaps longer. Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, and Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, went to the front for their respective parties
today.

Smoot appealed to the country for a reduction of not more than $300,- 000,000 and Harrison countered
with a demand for a $500,000,000
cut.

Harrison said congress should be called into session October 1 to take
up flood relief, taxes, farm relief,
Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam and the deficiency bill, in the order named.
"Every dollar of the surplus
should be given to the taxpayers,"
Harrison said.

Smoot and Chairman Green of the
house ways and means committee,
which meets October 31 to draft the
tax bill, oppose a tax cut of more
than $300,000,000 of the anticipated
$338,000,000 surplus, while Green
even advocates retaining $100,000,- 000 for possible emergencies.

Harrison's version of the democratic tax plan includes a $250,000,- 000 cut in the corporate rate, from 13½ to 11 per cent; reduction of
surtaxes on incomes between $24,000
and $64,000; elimination of all automobile and admission taxes amounting to more than $100,000,000, and retention of the present 20 per cent
maximum surtax.

Smoot believes congress will be called to meet in October, and he thinks the republican tax plan should include reduction of the corporation tax and elimination of some or part of all automobile and admission taxes.

On other political subjects the two leaders are even further apart.
Smoot said President Coolidge can be renominated and re-elected if he wants to be. Harrison said the democrats hoped he would be re-nominated, for "we want to take him for a real ride on a real horse while he is dressed up in his toy cowboy clothes." For this reason, he said, the democrats would not initiate any "anti-third term" attack on Mr.
Coolidge, although they would vote for such a resolution, as proposed by insurgent republicans, if it comes to a vote.

Harrison said Gov. Al Smith will be elected if he is nominated, although not more than one southern state, Louisiana, would support his candidacy at the opening of the democratic nominating convention
next June.

DRINKS SERVED BUT NO ONE INTOXICATED IN YACHT PARTY

Seattle, Wash., July 26.—(UP)— Drinks were served but none was intoxicated aboard the yacht Muriel the night Miss Violet Maud Payne, dancing and music teacher, was drowned,
according to testimony of A. F. Bell,
captain, before a coroner's jury.

Other members of the crew and of the yachting party were to testify today. Three others beside Bell, all of whom are held in jail in connection with the drowning, appeared on the stand yesterday.

Bell said that an effort to rescue Miss Payne after she had fell in the waters of Lake Union failed.

TO INVESTIGATE NOTES LEFT BY CONGRESSMAN

San Francisco, July 26.—(UP)— Notes left by Congressman Maurice
E. Crumpacker of Oregon, who committed suicide here, were to be investigated by authorities today. The notes indicated that the congressman had illusions he would be slain unless he killed himself.

Although accompanied by friends,
Crumpacker broke away after a struggle and leaped into the bay Sunday.

3 LOSE LIVES WHEN STEAMER HITS SUBMERGED BARGE

Pittsburgh, Calif., July 26.—(U P)—Three men were believed to have been drowned today and eight others were rescued when the river steamer Tanley Roberts struck a submerged barge in San Joaquin river opposite Pittsburgh and sank.

The missing men are Frank Shera, Dan Donahue, and F. R.
Rodgers, all of Oakland.

The men were deckhands and were asleep in their cabins when the freighter, en route from the Sacramento and San Quentin
Delta district with cargo of produce to San Francisco, went down.

EVERY TOWN TO HAVE ITS AIRPORT SOON

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ENDORSES POLICY ENCOURAGING AVIATION

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT TO AS-SIST IN EVERY POS-SIBLE WAY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rapid City, S. D., July 26.—President Coolidge intends to pursue the policy of encouraging every city and town in the United States to establish its own airport, it was announced at the executive offices here today.

Mr. Coolidge, it was said, has issued orders to the commerce department aviation control board to assist and promote in every possible
way the creation of suitable commercial landing fields in every little hamlet.

The president holds to the view
that the federal government cannot
appropriate funds for such fields but
will leave their establishment to localities while the federal government
devotes itself to the general promotion of aviation. The government,
however, will offer the facilities of
experience and advice.

In particular, the president is desirous of establishing landing fields
at Washington. At first he thought
the army and navy fields there would
do, but he has since looked into the matter because he is especially interested in it, and ascertained that a new field would be desirable.

At the same time it was made known that the president intends to
have little to do with selecting the
site for the next republican national convention. Representatives of several cities, including Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco have urged
that he use his influence with the republican national convention in their favor. The president expects to be consulted by the committee before it meets in December to make a choice, but does not intend to make
a decision himself.

Simultaneously it was announced
Mr. Coolidge had ordered Secretary
of State Kellogg to head the American delegation to attend the opening of the International Peace Bridge at Buffalo. The president expressed regret that he would be unable to attend to meet the Prince of Wales and Premier Baldwin of Great Britain.
Baldwin is not expected to come out here, it was said.

Mr. Coolidge this afternoon received 200 representatives of the Atlantic, Yellowstone & Pacific Highway Association assembled from five states. They met him on the White House lawn, and ice cream and cake
were served.

NEGRO INDICTED FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

New York, July 26.—(UP)—Earl Battice, Guilford, Miss., negro indicted
for the murder of his wife on the high seas while the schooner Kingsway was
en route to the African gold coast,
pleaded not guilty when arraigned to-
day.

Trial was set for August 8 by Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of Memphis, Tenn., who is sitting here
temporarily to help clear up a crowded calendar.

The court appointed Carruthers
Ewing and Prather S. MacDonald,
former members of the Memphis bar,
to defend Battice.

Family Fight Among So-Called Rockefeller Oil Companies Over Dealings With Soviet

IMPORTANT POLITICAL RAMIFI-CATIONS MAY FOL-LOW

DISPUTE LINKED WITH QUES-TION OF RECOGNITION BY U. S. OF RUSSIA

New York, July 26.—(UP)—The
family fight among the so-called Rockefeller oil companies over dealings with the Soviet Russian government today threatened to become an international oil war with important
diplomatic ramifications.

The dispute apparently was intimately linked with the question of recognition by the United States of the Soviet government, and may have been precipitated in part by events growing out of Great Britain's recent rupture of diplomatic relations with Moscow which led
many Americans to seek the Russian
trade Britain automatically lost.

American oil producers, victims at
the moment of heavy over-production; Roumanian oil producers who
face a sales war with American oil
companies in southeastern Europe
and the Near East, and Russian peasants, who were said to be facing a kerosene famine because the government was selling so much petroleum
to American companies all were indirectly involved in the remarkably
far-reaching dispute.

The international aspect of the
dispute arose from a statement by Sir Henri Detering, a managing director of the powerful Royal Dutch Shell group of oil companies, made
public in New York, which vigorously attacked the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum
Oil Company, both members of the Rockefeller group, for their heavy
purchases of petroleum from the Soviet government. Sir Henri charged
the companies by their Russian dealings accentuated the seriousness of
over-production in America, and accused them of a short-sighted policy.
"Why does not the Vacuum and
Standard Oil of New York state the truth, namely, that as they fancy it
pays them better to deal in cheap
Russian oil, they do not care for the rest of the world and especially for the American producer?" inquired
Sir Henri.

The Russian oil controversy was
brought before the public last week
when Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, another of the Rockefeller
group which always had co-operated with Standard of New York and Vacuum, issued a statement explaining the New Jersey company's policy
in refusing to deal with Russia, and
by inference criticizing the other companies for their dealings. After issuing the statement Teagle sailed
for Europe, and it was understood
today he hoped to be able to restrain
Sir Henri and the Dutch Shell group
from carrying out its reported plans
for a brisk campaign against Standard of New York and Vacuum not only in European markets but perhaps in American markets as well.
Standard of New Jersey is intimately
associated with the Dutch Shell
group and sympathizes with it. In
the dispute, but it was felt that if it
came to a showdown it would have
to side with the other companies in which the Rockefellers are interested in any important trade war.

To add to the interest of the situation, Ivy Lee, who handles publicity
matters for the Rockefellers and
many other powerful interests, made public a letter to Lewis E. Pierson,
president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, proposing establishment
of a bureau of the chamber in Moscow to promote American-Russian
trade. Pierson made public his reply curtly rejecting the proposal. It was the second attempt in a little more than a year that Lee had made
to promote Russian trade relations,
but neither time did he reveal for
whom he was acting.

5 CENT LOAF OF BREAD MAY NOT RETURN SOON

Chicago, July 26.—(UP)—The
five cent loaf of bread will return
when the housewife wants it, W.
E. Long, chairman of the National
Bread conference in session here,
believes.

"But the housewife doesn't want
'five cent' bread," Long said.
"When five cent bread was available years ago, the housewife
wouldn't have it. She wanted a good loaf of bread and she took
the trouble to bake it herself."

"When the baker stopped baking a cheap loaf and offered a wholesome palatable clean made
loaf, he slowly began to receive
the housewife's patronage."
Long predicted that should the
baker be forced again to offer a
five cent loaf, he would see his business slump back to the level
of years ago.

"The successful baker of today
uses the ingredients mother used

"BLACK BOXES" OF INDIANA ARE STORMY PETRELS

PROSECUTOR REMY TO GO BE-FORE THIRD GRAND JURY

ALLEGES EVIDENCE OF POLI-TICAL CORRUPTION IN THE STATE

By WILLIAM E. HALLBERG

Indianapolis, Ind., July 26.—Fortified by the contents of D. C. Stephenson's famous "black boxes," prosecutor William H. Remy of Marion county today was to go before the
third grand jury to be presented
with evidence of political corruption
in Indiana.

Other than to express satisfaction
over the contents of the former Ku Klux Klan dragon's lock boxes, the
prosecutor refused to reveal the nature of the documents.

He took one paper which had the
appearance of a contract, however,
and waved it aloft and said:
"That will line up the whole business."

Remy refused to show the paper to reporters. He also attached importance to two checks contained in
the Stephenson boxes, drawn for the sums of $21,000 and $24,000. He would not say to whom the checks
were payable or who had signed
them.

It was assumed Remy contended
the checks were evidence of alleged payments made by Stephenson or his representatives in the interest of controlling Indiana politics.

Another check said to have
been drawn by the Klan chieftain in favor of Gov. Ed. Jackson for $2,500
was revealed by the Indianapolis
Times, a Scripps-Howard newspaper,
several days ago. Stephenson alleged the check was a contribution
to Jackson's campaign fund which
was not listed in his campaign expenditures.

Scores of other cancelled checks
and telegrams are contained in the black boxes, according to Remy, and
most of the material has been examined by him and specially appointed
prosecutors co-operating.

The boxes were received by E. W.
Johnson, one of the special prosecu-
tors.

CAR COLLIDES WITH TRAIN; TWO KILLED

Winnipeg, Man., July 26.—(UP)—
Reports were received here today
from Rainy River Station, Ontario, of a railroad crossing crash which was fatal to Eugene Bourgeois and his
8-year-old daughter late Monday.

Bourgeois' automobile was struck
by Canadian National train No. 5, enroute to Winnipeg from Chicago, about
a mile east of Rainy River Station.

SEEK TO CARRY SOUTH DAKOTA FOR COOLIDGE

DOUBTFUL STATE REACH AGREEMENT

SENATOR NORBECK, 'BIG CHIEF'
TO ANNOUNCE HIMSELF FOR COOLIDGE SOON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rapid City, S. D., July 26.—In
series of conferences since the arrival of President Coolidge here, republican leaders of this doubtful state
have reached a tacit agreement to carry South Dakota for Mr. Coolidge
next year if possible.

Senator Peter J. Norbeck, republican South Dakota, and "Big Chief"
of the state organization, will announce himself shortly for Mr. Coolidge. He will be followed by F. S.
Meyers who is to be republican organization candidate for governor
next year and four of the leading
newspapers of the state.

Ordinarily this farming state has
not been considered pro-Coolidge
and after his veto of the McNary-Haugen bill, some republican newspapers took him to task. But since
his arrival here there has been nothing but sympathetic comment on
how his presence is booming the Black Hills as a vacation playground.

The United Press is informed upon
most reliable authority that leaders
are planning a series of announcements which may reflect their appreciation on Mr. Coolidge choice for the summer White House. What voters will do about it, however,
cannot be told until election day.
Norbeck, Meyers and the four large-
est papers are considered the highest political influences in the republican organization, but talks with
local people give no indication that
Mr. Coolidge personally has captured
the state.

At Bellefourche Round-up recently Mr. Coolidge was given an enthusiastic western welcome, and the announcer called on him four times for
a speech. Townspeople were so certain that he would at least express
his appreciation of their reception
that the local newspaper issued an
extra edition quoting him prematurely as expressing gratitude.

Mr. Coolidge's persistent declina-
tion to say anything was the chief
topic of conversation on the streets
there that night. Similar incidents
have recently occurred, but it remains to be seen whether they will
have the slightest political effect
when weighed against the publicity
the president has given this section
of the country which is hungry for
"development."

Mrs. Coolidge arranged to motor sixty-six miles this afternoon to Newcastle, Wyoming, to attend the
wedding of Miss Dorothy Mondell,
of Washington, daughter of the former republican floor leader of the house, and Alexander W. Gregg,
chief counsel of internal revenue bureau, at the Mondell summer home
there.

Tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge
will attend the "Gold Discovery Days" celebration at Custer, 12 miles
from the summer White House.

Los Angeles, July 26.—(UP)—Aimee
Semple McPherson is planning another religious innovation.

Angelus temple is to be made into Angelus Temple Lighthouse and the
four square gospel will hereafter be known as four square gospel light
house service, she announced.

Without changing the doctrines or
policies of the gospel as now taught,
the four square gospel lighthouse
service will be taken to every large
city in the United States.

Mrs. McPherson will be "admiral"
in the new organization and other workers will be dressed in naval costumes with their rank designated by different insignia.

Hong Kong, July 26.—(UP)—A
hundred and fifty persons were believed today to have been drowned when a large Chinese
passenger junk proceeding to Kong Moon from Canton was cap-
sized in a typhoon. Two launches
also sank.

Life Insurance Company Agents Elect Officers

Milwaukee, July 26.—(UP)—Clarence H. Poindexter, Kansas City, was elected president of the General
Agents' association of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., in convention here late yesterday. Ralph Hamburger, Minneapolis, was named
vice president, and Sam C. Pearson, Kansas City, was elected secretary and treasurer.

NEW YORK MAY SOON HAVE TO WALK TO WORK

TAKEN FOR GRANTED SUBWAY STRIKE STARTS MIDNIGHT
TONIGHT

NEW BUS, TROLLEY AND WATER
LINES BEING ESTAB-LISHED

New York, July 26.—(UP)—New York's millions who use the subways
and elevated lines went to their jobs
today not knowing how or when
they would get to them tomorrow.

It was taken for granted that the strike would start at midnight tonight.

The city was making use of the last day before the threatened tie-
up of the underground and overhead
lines to augment and establish new bus, trolley and water lines. Even the municipal boat Macom, which heretofore has carried only queen,
princes and trans-Atlantic aviators,
may be pressed into service along
with ferries and dilapidated boats to carry people from uptown Manhattan to the financial district.

"There will be a strike at mid-
night and it will be in full effect
Wednesday morning," was the last word of James H. Coleman, of the Amalgamated Association of Street
and Electric Railway Employees.

Officials of the two companies, the Interborough and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, said before they even received an invitation that they would not confer today with Mayor
Walker, who is trying to reconcile
the factions.

Labor leaders were to call on the
transit commission but have already
announced that they would not meet
the commission's request to call off
the strike.

The strike vote will be taken tonight at Brooklyn, the day men will vote at 10 P. M. and strike at midnight. The night men will vote at 3 A. M. tomorrow and refuse to go to work when their next shift begins.

The two companies employ approximately 25,000 men. Leaders
of the Amalgamated said fully 75
per cent of the men would strike.
Company officials said not more than 10 per cent would quit.

Meanwhile, the Interborough fed
and lodged in the company's terminals 1,000 strikers brought here from other cities.

The main issue of the strike is
the Amalgamated demand for recognition. The Amalgamated is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The companies say they have their own unions with which 90 per cent of the employees are satisfied.
They refuse to recognize the Amalgamated.

Today's newspapers carried elaborate schedules of the re-routing of trolley lines and the routes to be followed by emergency bus lines
which the city will establish if the strike is called. All manner of craft
will operate on the Hudson.

The 5-cent fare will be maintained throughout the strike, city officials assured commuters. Even out-of-town bus companies will have to agree to charge no more than 5 cents
before a temporary permit is issued
for the duration of the tie-up.

LORD BALFOUR DOMINATED THE WASHINGTON PARLEY COMPLETELY

LONDON DAILY NEWS PRAISES
STATESMAN'S CHARM
AND TACT

By CLIFFORD L. DAY
London, July 26.—Influential quarters today were urging the government to send Lord Balfour to Geneva in an eleventh hour effort to avert the breakdown of the naval armaments conference.

It was pointed out, however, that
W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, who is head of the British delegation at the conference, and other "big navy" men would be likely to oppose the move.

The Liberal Daily News, in an editorial today, pointed to Lord Balfour as the man to save the conference.

"It is significant," said the Daily
News, "that when a few weeks ago
it seemed that the conference might
break down, it was immediately
urged by many responsible men of
affairs that the only means of preventing that illimitable catastrophe
was to send Lord Balfour to the conference."

"Lord Balfour dominated the Washington conference as no Englishman ever dominated a conference
since Disraeli brought back 'peace

Praising Balfour's statesmanship
and charm, the Daily News said, "He
is to foreign nations a 'beautiful

FRICITION BETWEEN MEDICAL MEN AND OSTEOPATHS

Denver, Colo., July 26.—(UP)—Friction between the American Medical association and the American Osteopathic association cropped out in the opening sessions of the latter's convention here.

Dr. Ray B. Gilmour of Sioux City,
Ia., attacked the American Medical association's legislative program which
requires all practitioners and healers
to pass examinations in the so-called basic sciences.

A movement was under way today
in the convention to adopt a resolution putting the association on record
against legislation now being sought
by the American Medical association.

The remedy would be, according to osteopathic practitioners, to have those
who would practice osteopathy to be examined by boards composed of osteopathic physicians.

Examinations under laws sponsored
by the medical society are to be conducted by men not engaged in the practice of medicine or any other form of healing.

U. S. STEEL AND GENERAL MOTORS TO NEW LEVELS

New York, July 26.—(UP)—United States Steel and General Motors common stock jumped to new high levels
for the year on the stock exchange
shortly before the close today in anticipation of earnings reports of both companies, which were to be made public later in the day.

The reports were expected to show
record earnings.

of the emergency services will be
broadcast over the municipal radio
station. The broadcasting station
will be operated 24 hours a day. If necessary, to inform the public of the city's plans for handling the traffic.

Strikebreakers are being fed and lodged and will receive $8 a day. The
present employees receive from $6.83
to $4.25 a day. They work eight hours a day seven days a week.

Several thousand Brooklyn residents had an advance taste of what
a subway tie-up is like when trains
on the Flatbush division of the I. R.
T. were stalled from 9:05 to 10 A.
M. At first many persons believed
employees had struck ahead of time,
but a blown out dynamo was the cause.

with a demand for a $500,000,000
cut.

called into session October 1 to take
up flood relief, taxes, farm relief,
Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam and the
deficiency bill, in the order named.
"Every dollar of the surplus
should be given to the taxpayers,"
Harrison said.

Smoot and Chairman Green of the
house ways and means committee,
which meets October 31 to draft the
tax bill, oppose a tax cut of more
than $300,000,000 of the anticipated
$338,000,000 surplus, while Green
even advocates retaining $100,000,- 000 for possible emergencies.

Harrison's version of the democratic tax plan includes a $250,000,- 000 cut in the corporate rate, from 13½ to 11 per cent; reduction of
surtaxes on incomes between $24,000
and $64,000; elimination of all auto-

retention of the present 20 per cent

democratic nominating convention
next June.

Rapid City, S. D., July 26.—Pres-

sued orders to the commerce department aviation control board to assist and promote in every possible
way the creation of suitable com-
hamlet.

The president holds to the view
that the federal government cannot
appropriate funds for such fields but
will leave their establishment to lo-
calities while the federal government
devotes itself to the general promotion of aviation. The government,
however, will offer the facilities of
experience and advice.

In particular, the president is de-
sirous of establishing landing fields
at Washington. At first he thought
the army and navy fields there would
matter because he is especially interested in it, and ascertained that a new field would be desirable.

At the same time it was made
have little to do with selecting the
site for the next republican national convention. Representatives of several cities, including Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco have urged
that he use his influence with the
republican national convention in
their favor. The president expects
to be consulted by the committee before it meets in December to make a
choice, but does not intend to make
a decision himself.

Simultaneously it was announced
Mr. Coolidge had ordered Secretary
of State Kellogg to head the American delegation to attend the opening of the International Peace Bridge at Buffalo. The president expressed regret that he would be unable to attend to meet the Prince of Wales
and Premier Baldwin of Great Britain. Baldwin is not expected to come out here, it was said.

Mr. Coolidge this afternoon received 200 representatives of the Atlantic, Yellowstone & Pacific High-
way Association assembled from five
states. They met him on the White House lawn, and ice cream and cake

NEGRO INDICTED FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Battice, Gulfport, Miss., negro indicted
for the murder of his wife on the high
seas while the schooner Kingsway was
en route to the African gold coast,
pleaded not guilty when arraigned to-
day.

Trial was set for August 8 by Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of Memphis, Tenn., who is sitting here
temporarily to help clear up a crowded calendar.

Ewing and Prather S. MacDonald,
former members of the Memphis bar,

IMPORTANT POLITICAL RAMIFI- CATIONS MAY FOL- LOW

DISPUTE LINKED WITH QUES- TION OF RECOGNITION BY U. S. OF RUSSIA

New York, July 26.—(UP)—The
family fight among the so-called Rockefeller oil companies over deal-
ings with the Soviet Russian government today threatened to become an
international oil war with important
diplomatic ramifications.

The dispute apparently was in-
timately linked with the question of
recognition by the United States of the Soviet government, and may have been precipitated in part by events growing out of Great Britain's recent rupture of diplomatic
relations with Moscow which led
many Americans to seek the Russian
trade Britain automatically lost.

American oil producers, victims at
the moment of heavy over-production; Roumanian oil producers who
face a sales war with American oil
companies in southeastern Europe
and the Near East, and Russian peas-
ants, who were said to be facing a
kerosene famine because the government was selling so much petroleum
to American companies all were in-
directly involved in the remarkably
far-reaching dispute.

dispute arose from a statement by Sir Henri Deterding, a managing director of the powerful Royal Dutch
Shell group of oil companies, made
public in New York, which vigor-
ously attacked the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum
Oil Company, both members of the Rockefeller group, for their heavy
purchases of petroleum from the Soviet government. Sir Henri charged
the companies by their Russian deal-
ings accentuated the seriousness of
over-production in America, and accused them of a short-sighted policy.

"Why does not the Vacuum and
Standard Oil of New York state the
truth, namely, that as they fancy it
pays them better to deal in cheap
Russian oil, they do not care for the
rest of the world and especially for
Sir Henri.

The Russian oil controversy was
brought before the public last week
when Walter C. Teagle, president of
the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, another of the Rockefeller
group which always had co-operated with Standard of New York and Vacuum, issued a statement explaining the New Jersey company's policy
in refusing to deal with Russia, and
by inference criticizing the other
companies for their dealings. After
issuing the statement Teagle sailed
for Europe, and it was understood
today he hoped to be able to restrain
Sir Henri and the Dutch Shell group
from carrying out its reported plans
for a brisk campaign against Standard of New York and Vacuum not
only in European markets but perhaps in American markets as well.
Standard of New Jersey is intimately
associated with the Dutch Shell
group and sympathizes with it in
came to a showdown it would have
to side with the other companies in
which the Rockefellers are interested in an important trade war.

To add to the interest of the situation, Ivy Lee, who handles publicity
matters for the Rockefellers and
many other powerful interests, made
public a letter to Lewis E. Pierson,
president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, proposing establishment
of a bureau of the chamber in Mos-
cow to promote American-Russian
trade. Pierson made public his reply curtly rejecting the proposal. It
was the second attempt in a little
more than a year that Lee had made
to promote Russian trade relations,
but neither time did he reveal for
whom he was acting.

Chicago, July 25.—(UP)—The
five cent loaf of bread will return
when the housewife wants it, W.
E. Long, chairman of the National
Bread conference in session here,
believes.

"But the housewife doesn't want
five cent bread," Long said.
"When five cent bread was available years ago, the housewife
wouldn't have it. She wanted a
good loaf of bread and she took
the trouble to bake it herself."

"When the baker stopped baking a cheap loaf and offered a
wholesome palatable clean made
loaf, he slowly began to receive
the housewife's patronage."

Long predicted that should the
baker be forced again to offer a
five cent loaf, he would see his
business slump back to the level
of years ago.

"The successful baker of today
uses the ingredients mother used

PROSECUTOR REMY TO GO BE- FORE THIRD GRAND JURY

ALLEGES EVIDENCE OF POLITI- CAL CORRUPTION IN THE STATE

Indianapolis, Ind., July 26.—Fortified by the contents of D. C. Stephenson's famous "black boxes," Prosecutor William H. Remy of Marion county today was to go before the
third grand jury to be presented
in Indiana.

Other than to express satisfaction
over the contents of the former Ku
Klux Klan dragon's lock boxes, the
prosecutor refused to reveal the nature of the documents.

He took one paper which had the
appearance of a contract, however,
and waved it aloft and said:

"That will line up the whole business."

Remy refused to show the paper to
reporters. He also attached importance to two checks contained in
the Stephenson boxes, drawn for the sums of $21,000 and $24,000. He would not say to whom the checks
them.

It was assumed Remy contended
the checks were evidence of alleged
payments made by Stephenson or his
representatives in the interest of
controlling Indiana politics.

Another check said to have
been drawn by the Klan chieftain in favor of Gov. Ed. Jackson for $2,500
was revealed by the Indianapolis
Times, a Scripps-Howard newspaper,
several days ago. Stephenson alleged the check was a contribution
to Jackson's campaign fund which
was not listed in his campaign expenditures.

Scores of other cancelled checks
and telegrams are contained in the
black boxes, according to Remy, and
most of the material has been examined by him and specially appointed
prosecutors co-operating.

The boxes were received by E. W.
Johnson, one of the special prosecu-
tors.

Winnipeg, Man., July 26.—(UP)—
Reports were received here today
from Rainy River Station, Ontario, of a railroad crossing crash which was fatal to Eugene Bourgeois and his
8-year-old daughter late Monday.

Bourgeois' automobile was struck
by Canadian National train No. 5, en-
route to Winnipeg from Chicago, about
a mile east of Rainy River Station.

SEEK TO CARRY SOUTH DAKOTA FOR COOLIDGE

REPUBLICAN LEADERS OF THAT DOUBTFUL STATE REACH AGREEMENT

SENATOR NORBECK, 'BIG CHIEF', TO ANNOUNCE HIMSELF FOR COOLIDGE SOON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Rapid City, S. D., July 26.—In
series of conferences since the arrival of President Coolidge here, republican leaders of this doubtful state
carry South Dakota for Mr. Coolidge
next year if possible.

lican South Dakota, and "Big Chief"
of the state organization, will announce himself shortly for Mr. Coolidge. He will be followed by F. S.
Meyers who is to be republican organization candidate for governor
next year and four of the leading
newspapers of the state.

Ordinarily this farming state has
not been considered pro-Coolidge
and after his veto of the McNary-Haugen bill, some republican newspapers took him to task. But since
his arrival here there has been nothing but sympathetic comment on
how his presence is booming the Black Hills as a vacation play-
ground.

The United Press is informed upon
most reliable authority that leaders
are planning a series of announce-
ments which may reflect their ap-
the summer White House. What
voters will do about it, however,
cannot be told until election day.

Norbeck, Meyers and the four largest papers are considered the highest political influences in the republican organization, but talks with
local people give no indication that
Mr. Coolidge personally has captured
the state.

At Bellefourche Round-up recently Mr. Coolidge was given an enthusiastic western welcome, and the an-
nouncer called on him four times for
a speech. Townspeople were so certain that he would at least express
his appreciation of their reception
that the local newspaper issued an
extra edition quoting him prema-
turely as expressing gratitude.

Mr. Coolidge's persistent declina-
tion to say anything was the chief
topic of conversation on the streets
there that night. Similar incidents
have recently occurred, but it remains to be seen whether they will
have the slightest political effect,
when weighed against the publicity
the president has given this section
of the country which is hungry for
"development."

Mrs. Coolidge arranged to motor
sixty-six miles this afternoon to
wedding of Miss Dorothy Mondell,
of Washington, daughter of the former republican floor leader of the
house, and Alexander W. Gregg,
chief counsel of internal revenue bureau, at the Mondell summer home
there.

Tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge
will attend the "Gold Discovery Days" celebration at Custer, 12 miles
from the summer White House.

Los Angeles, July 26.—(UP)—Aimee
Semple McPherson is planning an-
other religious innovation.
Angelus temple is to be made into Angelus Temple Lighthouse and the
four square gospel will hereafter be
known as four square gospel light
house service, she announced.

Without changing the doctrines or
policies of the gospel as now taught,
the four square gospel lighthouse
service will be taken to every large

Hong Kong, July 26.—(UP)—A
hundred and fifty persons were
believed today to have been drowned when a large Chinese
passenger junk proceeding to Kong Moon from Canton was cap-
sized in a typhoon. Two launches
also sank.

Life Insurance Company Agents Elect Officers

ence H. Poindexter, Kansas City, was elected president of the General
Agents' association of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., in convention here late yesterday. Ralph Hamburger, Minneapolis, was named
vice president, and Sam C. Pearson, Kansas City, was elected secretary and

NEW YORK MAY SOON HAVE TO WALK TO WORK

TAKEN FOR GRANTED SUBWAY STRIKE STARTS MIDNIGHT TONIGHT

NEW BUS, TROLLEY AND WATER LINES BEING ESTAB- LISHED

New York, July 26.—(UP)—New York's millions who use the subway
and elevated lines went to their jobs
today not knowing how or when
they would get to them tomorrow.

It was taken for granted that the
strike would start at midnight tonight.

The city was making use of the
last day before the threatened tie-
up of the underground and overhead
lines to augment and establish new
bus, trolley and water lines. Even the municipal boat Macon, which heretofore has carried only queens,
princes and trans-Atlantic aviators,
may be pressed into service along
with ferries and dilapidated boats to
carry people from uptown Manhattan to the financial district.

"There will be a strike at mid-
night and it will be in full effect
Wednesday morning," was the last
word of James H. Coleman, of the Amalgamated Association of Street
and Electric Railway Employees.

Interborough and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, said before they even
received an invitation that they
would not confer today with Mayor
Walker, who is trying to reconcile
the factions.

Labor leaders were to call on the
transit commission but have already
announced that they would not meet
the commission's request to call off
the strike.

The strike vote will be taken tonight at Brooklyn, the day men will vote at 10 P. M. and strike at midnight. The night men will vote at 3 A. M. tomorrow and refuse to go to work when their next shift begins.

The two companies employ approximately 25,000 men. Leaders
of the Amalgamated said fully 75
per cent of the men would strike.
Company officials said not more than 10 per cent would quit.

Meanwhile, the Interborough fed
and lodged in the company's terminals 1,000 strikebreakers brought
here from other cities.

The main issue of the strike is
the Amalgamated demand for recognition. The Amalgamated is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The companies say they have
their own unions with which 99 per cent of the employees are satisfied.
They refuse to recognize the Amal-
gamated.

Today's newspapers carried elaborate schedules of the re-routing of
trolley lines and the routes to be
followed by emergency bus lines
which the city will establish if the
strike is called. All manner of craft
will operate on the Hudson.

The 5-cent fare will be maintained throughout the strike, city officials assured commuters. Even out-
of-town bus companies will have to
agree to charge no more than 5 cents
before a temporary permit is issued
for the duration of the tie-up.

LORD BALFOUR DOMINATED THE WASHINGTON PARLEY COMPLETELY

LONDON DAILY NEWS PRAISES STATESMAN'S CHARM AND TACT

London, July 26.—Influential quarters today were urging the government to send Lord Balfour to Geneva in an eleventh hour effort to avert the breakdown of the naval
armaments conference.

It was pointed out, however, that
W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, who is head of the British delegation at the conference, and other "big navy" men would be likely to oppose the move.

The Liberal Daily News, in an
editorial today, pointed to Lord Bal-
four as the man to save the conference.

"It is significant," said the Daily
News, "that when a few weeks ago
it seemed that the conference might
break down, it was immediately
urged by many responsible men of
affairs that the only means of preventing that illimitable catastrophe
was to send Lord Balfour to the conference."

"Lord Balfour dominated the
Washington conference as no Eng-
lishman ever dominated a conference
since Disraeli brought back 'peace

Praising Balfour's statesmanship
and charm, the Daily News said, "He
is to foreign nations a 'beautiful

FRICTION BETWEEN MEDICAL MEN AND OSTEOPATHS

Denver, Colo., July 26.—(UP)—Friction between the American Medical association and the American Osteo-
pathic association cropped out in the
vention here.

Dr. Ray B. Gilmour of Sioux City,
Ia., attacked the American Medical association's legislative program which
requires all practitioners and healers
to pass examinations in the so-called
basic sciences.

A movement was under way today
in the convention to adopt a resolution putting the association on record
against legislation now being sought
by the American Medical association.

The remedy would be, according to
osteopathic practitioners, to have those
who would practice osteopathy to be examined by boards composed of osteopathic physicians.

Examinations under laws sponsored
by the medical society are to be conducted by men not engaged in the practice of medicinal or any other
form of healing.

U. S. STEEL AND GENERAL MOTORS TO NEW LEVELS

States Steel and General Motors common stock jumped to new high levels
for the year on the stock exchange
shortly before the close today in anticipation of earnings reports of both companies, which were to be made
public later in the day.

The reports were expected to show
record earnings.
of the emergency services will be
broadcast over the municipal radio
station. The broadcasting station
will be operated 24 hours a day, if necessary, to inform the public of the city's plans for handling the traffic.

Strikebreakers are being fed and lodged and will receive $8 a day. The
present employees receive from $6.89
to $4.25 a day. They work eight
hours a day seven days a week.

Several thousand Brooklyn residents had an advance taste of what
a subway tie-up is like when trains
on the Flatbush division of the I. R.
T. were stalled from 9:05 to 10 A.
M. At first many persons believed
employees had struck ahead of time,
but a blown out dynamo was the
cause.

OBEY TRAFFIC LAW; PREVENT ACCIDENTS

IV. Coasting In Neutral

"The driver of a motor vehicle when traveling upon a down grade shall not allow the vehicle to coast with gears of such vehicle in neutral."

Ordinary traffic officers will seldom check up and see whether you violate this provision in the Minnesota traffic code. But there is one traffic officer who is likely to get you, if you do, and that is the Grim Reaper. He is looking for careless drivers.

You may get to the bottom of the hill alive, with gears in neutral, if the brakes are good. But a brake rod may snap, or the hill may be steeper than it looks. It is just as easy, and a lot safer, to obey the rule and keep the car in gear. If the hill is steep, second or even low gear may be advisable.

V. On Hills, Keep Right

"The driver of a motor vehicle upon steep grades shall hold such motor vehicle under control and as near the right hand side of the highway as possible."

Common sense would seem to dictate that a driver on a steep grade shall keep his car under control. But according to the old saying, law is common sense applied, so this common sense rule was put into the law. The rule of keeping to the right is for the protection of other traffic. If you are on the left side and you lose control of your car and hit someone, you may face a heavy damage suit, besides the loss of life, limb or property. If you stay on the right, you at least avoid the damage suit. And if you keep the car under control, you avoid the accident also.

VI. The One Light Danger

The law requires every motor vehicle using the highways at night to have lighted headlights from one half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise and at any other time when there is not enough light so a person can be seen 200 feet away.

Motor cycles, road rollers, road machines or farm tractors may have one or two, but ordinary passenger cars must have "two head lamps, no more no less, at the front and at opposite sides of the motor vehicle."

Auxiliary lights are permitted, with certain limitations, but the requirement that trucks and pleasure cars have two lighted headlamps at night is definite and specific.

Many counties and municipalities are enforcing this rule rigidly, still there are scores of cars on the road at night with only one light.

The rule requiring two lighted headlamps at night is one that it is dangerous to violate, even if there is not a traffic officer within a hundred miles. Failure to observe this rule led to many serious accidents. Carry a spare bulb, or get a new one at the first corner.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

July 26, 1902

Mrs. J. Mowder, mother of Mrs. G. F. Mitchell, and Mrs. G. W. Eastman and William Mowder, their brother, returned to their home in Minneapolis this afternoon.

Mrs. Joseph Moore of Boston who has been visiting Mrs. Slipp the past week returned to Minneapolis this noon. Mrs. Moore will be remembered by the older residents of the city as Miss Maude Baldwin, who made her home with Mrs. Slipp some 15 years ago.

William Rogers of the Dispatch bought a "bucking broncho" the other day and his spare moments are now being spent in training the animal to travel through the sand with a sulky hitched behind.

C. A. Nelson has been appointed temporary substitute mail carrier to cover the route of James Nolan who was hurt at the Elks ball game on Saturday.

George West returned this afternoon from Milaca where he has been visiting over Sunday.

The "Good Roads Train" sent out by the good roads section of the United States agricultural department will be in St. Cloud from September 8 to 13. In view of the renewed interest in the matter of road and street improvement in this city and county an effort should be made to get them here to make practical demonstrations of what is the best and cheapest method of road improvement in this character of soil.

IV. Coasting in Neutral
"The driver of a motor vehicle when traveling upon a down grade shall not allow the vehicle to coast with gears of such vehicle in neutral."

Ordinary traffic officers will seldom check up and see whether you violate this provision in the Minnesota traffic code. But there is one traffic officer who is likely to get you, if you do, and that is the Grim Reaper. He is looking for careless drivers.

You may get to the bottom of the hill alive, with gears in neutral, if the brakes are good. But a brake rod may snap, or the hill may be steeper than it looks. It is just as easy, and a lot safer, to obey the rule and keep the car in gear. If the hill is steep, second or even low gear may be advisable.

V. On Hills, Keep Right

"The driver of a motor vehicle upon steep grades shall hold such motor vehicle under control and as near the right hand side of the highway as possible."

Common sense would seem to dictate that a driver on a steep grade shall keep his car under control. But according to the old saying, law is common sense applied, so this common sense rule was put into the law.

The rule of keeping to the right is for the protection of other traffic. If you are on the left side and you lose control of your car and hit someone, you may face a heavy damage suit, besides the loss of life, limb or property. If you stay on the right, you at least avoid the damage suit. And if you keep the car under control, you avoid the accident also.

VI. The One Light Danger

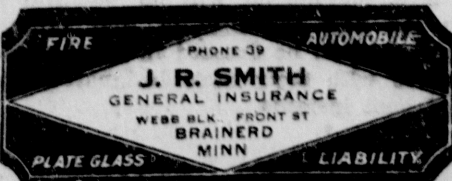

The law requires every motor vehicle using the highways at night to have lighted headlights from one half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise and at any other time when there is not enough light so a person can be seen 200 feet away.

Motor cycles, road rollers, road machines or farm tractors may have one or two, but ordinary passenger cars must have "two head lamps, no more no less, at the front and at opposite sides of the motor vehicle."

Auxiliary lights are permitted, with certain limitations, but the requirement that trucks and pleasure cars have two lighted headlamps at night is definite and specific.

Many counties and municipalities are enforcing this rule rigidly, still there are scores of cars on the road at night with only one light.

The rule requiring two lighted headlamps at night is one that it is dangerous to violate, even if there is not a traffic officer within a hundred miles. Failure to observe this rule led to many serious accidents. Carry a spare bulb, or get a new one at the first corner.

From the Daily Dispatch

July 26, 1902

Mrs. J. Mowder, mother of Mrs. G. F. Mitchell, and Mrs. G. W. Eastman and William Mowder, their brother, returned to their home in Minneapolis this afternoon.

Mrs. Joseph Moore of Boston who has been visiting Mrs. Slipp the past week returned to Minneapolis this noon. Mrs. Moore will be remembered by the older residents of the city as Miss Maude Baldwin, who made her home with Mrs. Slipp some 15 years ago.

William Rogers of the Dispatch bought a "bucking broncho" the other day and his spare moments are now being spent in training the animal to travel through the sand with a sulky hitched behind.

C. A. Nelson has been appointed temporary substitute mail carrier to cover the route of James Nolan who was hurt at the Elks ball game on Saturday.

George West returned this afternoon from Milaca where he has been visiting over Sunday.

The "Good Roads Train" sent out by the good roads section of the United States agricultural department will be in St. Cloud from September 8 to 13. In view of the renewed interest in the matter of road and street improvement in this city and county an effort should be made to get them here to make practical demonstrations of what is the best and cheapest method of road improvement in this character of soil.

BELIEVES FRENCH DEBT PACT WITH U.S. NEVER RATIFIED

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—Andrew Tardieu, French cabinet member, believes the Berenger-Mellon French debt agreement with the United States will never be ratified by France and that eventually a new negotiation must be made, according to an interview published in the current number of Nation's Business.

The magazine quoted Tardieu as saying that no French government would bind the people over a period of 62 years contemplated in the pact. "The agreement is dead," he said.

"The trouble with most Americans," Tardieu is quoted as saying, "is that they honestly believe they are better than the men of other lands, because they have more worldly goods. Once the idol of France, the United States is today without worshippers. Financial power is the only means of influence America has left."

TAMPA FISHERMAN IS SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED 9 MURDERS

Tampa Fla., July 26.—(UP)—One juror remained to be chosen today before testimony would start in the trial of Ben Levins, Tampa fisherman, said to have admitted nine murders.

Levins is charged specifically with the slaying of Looney Merrill, a carpenter, and his wife. The Merrills and three of their children were killed last May, while asleep. Their skulls were crushed with a railroad maul. Several men were killed and a score wounded a few days after the crime when a mob attempted to break into the county jail where Levins was thought to be confined.

The big fisherman, according to police, has confessed murdering the five members of the Merrill family and also the slaying of four other persons in a similar manner a year ago. Levins confessed he used "oope" and said he was under its influence the nights of the murders.

COL. LINDBERGH SETS OUT FOR SPRINGFIELD, VT.

Concord, N. H., July 26.—(UP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off in his Spirit of St. Louis for Springfield, Vermont, at 12:51 p. m. today in the sixth leg of his national air tour.

COL. ROOSEVELT NOT ABLE TO FISH IN MINNESOTA WATERS

St. Paul, July 26.—(UP)—J. F. Gould, state game and fish commissioner, today received word that Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be unable to fulfill his scheduled fishing trip to northern Minnesota lakes.

Col. Roosevelt recently injured his leg while on a camping trip. As a result, Gould informed persons who were to accompany them, that the outing has been indefinitely postponed.

INLAND STEEL CORPORATION VOTES DIVIDENDS

New York, July 26.—(UP)—Directors of Inland Steel corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividends of 62½ cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred. The common is payable Sept. 1 to stock on record Aug. 15, and the preferred Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

VAN LEAR BLACK FLEW 18,600 MILES

London, July 26.—(UP)—Van Lear Black, publisher of the Baltimore Sun, arrived at the Croydon airdrome late last night, completing a flight of 18,600 miles in less than 200 flying hours. He set a new word record for passenger flying.

The publisher, accompanied by pilot, mechanic and valets, flew to Batavia, Dutch East Indies, and back in a Fokker air yacht.

"It was a great experience," Black said on his arrival here. "My friends warned me that such a flight would be dangerous but I proved to them that they were wrong. The only exciting moment of the whole flight was when a herd of wild elephants dashed toward us as we were taking off at the Burma airdrome. The pilot managed to clear them by seven or eight feet."

DRASTIC STEPS TO 'CLEAR AIR' FOR RADIO

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—Drastic steps to "clear the air" by eliminating stations that disobey wave length assignments were announced by the Federal Radio commission today.

Stations not on authorized wave lengths by Aug. 15 will be denied new licenses then, Commissioner Bellows said. About 50 per cent of the nearly 700 stations are off their assigned wave lengths now, he added.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS—ABOUT SPORTS WEAR

By HEDDA HOYT
New York, July 26.—(UP)—If I were asked what the smartest colors for sportswear were, I should say "white or beige," either used singly or combined together. Although the great majority of women wear more colorful sports clothing, the woman of means and taste usually wears white, beige or a combination of the two tones this season.

One of the simplest and smartest sports costumes I have recently seen was worn by a New York society girl at Newport. This costume consisted of a smart little beige velvet jumper, white pleated skirt, white felt hat banded in beige ribbon, white shoes strapped in beige and nude-beige hosiery. At this same resort several smart women are wearing white coats trimmed in light beige fox fur. Entire white costumes worn with beige hats and stockings are numerous. Some of the younger girls are wearing white jacket suits with beige sweaters and hats.

White felt hats are numerous at all smart resorts. The vacation wardrobe cannot be complete without a white felt hat of simple smartness and although one has hats to match every colorful sports costume one never fails to also include a white model. For one thing, the white hat can be worn with any color. Another, it is a bit dressier than the more colorful hat. Since most felt shapes these days are narrow-brimmed affairs which require constant adjusting, it is best to select the white model with a wide-edged brim finished with ribbon brim banding as the wire holds the hat in shape.

This year the all-white shoe, or the white shoe trimmed in color, is again popular, although we seldom see the white shoe worn with white stockings. Nude or sunburned stocking shades are invariably worn with white shoes.

White fox furs are favored by younger girls for wear with pastel-hued sports frocks and suits. Older women seem to prefer the very light beige fox scarfs to white. Where one wears the beige for neckpiece accessories such as handkerchief, handbag, gloves and hat are liable to be in light beige tones.

"David Belasco's advice impressed me"

Walter J. Leather is telling Joyce Todd as they start for an all-day motor jaunt through the Berkshires.

David Belasco, dean of the American Theatre, writes:

"The voice is to the actor what the chisel is to the sculptor. He must beware of dulling its qualities. Naturally I am vitally concerned about the voices of my players, so I always advise the one cigarette that I discovered many years ago that does not impair control of the subtlest vocal shadings or cause huskiness or harshness. I mean the 'Lucky Strike.' It is the player's best friend."

David Belasco.

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

BELIEVES FRENCH DEBT PACT WITH U.S. NEVER RATIFIED

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—Andrew Tardieu, French cabinet member, believes the Berenger-Mellon French debt agreement with the United States will never be ratified by France and that eventually a new negotiation must be made, according to an interview published in the current number of Nation's Business.

The magazine quoted Tardieu as saying that no French government would bind the people over a period of 62 years contemplated in the pact. "The agreement is dead," he said.

"The trouble with most Americans," Tardieu is quoted as saying, "is that they honestly believe they are better than the men of other lands, because they have more worldly goods. Once the idol of France, the United States is today without worshippers. Financial power is the only means of influence America has left."

TAMPA FISHERMAN IS SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED 9 MURDERS

Tampa Fla., July 26.—(UP)—One juror remained to be chosen today before testimony would start in the trial of Ben Levins, Tampa fisherman, said to have admitted nine murders.

Levins is charged specifically with the slaying of Looney Merrill, a carpenter, and his wife. The Merrills and three of their children were killed last May, while asleep. Their skulls were crushed with a railroad maul. Several men were killed and a score wounded a few days after the crime when a mob attempted to break into the county jail where Levins was thought to be confined.

The big fisherman, according to police, has confessed murdering the five members of the Merrill family and also the slaying of four other persons in a similar manner a year ago.

Levins confessed he used "nope" and said he was under its influence the nights of the murders.

COL. LINDBERGH SETS OUT FOR SPRINGFIELD, VT.

COL. ROOSEVELT NOT ABLE TO FISH IN MINNESOTA WATERS

St. Paul, July 26.—(UP)—J. F. Gould, state game and fish commissioner, today received word that Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be unable to fulfill his scheduled fishing trip to northern Minnesota lakes.

Col. Roosevelt recently injured his leg while on a camping trip. As a result, Gould informed persons who were to accompany them, that the outing has been indefinitely postponed.

INLAND STEEL CORPORATION VOTES DIVIDENDS

New York, July 26.—(UP)—Directors of Inland Steel corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividends of 62½ cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred. The common is payable Sept. 1 to stock on record Aug. 15, and the preferred Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

VAN LEAR BLACK FLEW 18,600 MILES

London, July 26.—(UP)—Van Lear Black, publisher of the Baltimore Sun, arrived at the Croydon airdrome late last night, completing a flight of 18,600 miles in less than 200 flying hours. He set a new word record for passenger flying.

The publisher, accompanied by pilot, mechanic and valets, flew to Batavia, Dutch East Indies, and back in a Fokker air yacht.

"It was a great experience," Black said on his arrival here. "My friends warned me that such a flight would be dangerous but I proved to them that they were wrong. The only exciting moment of the whole flight was when a herd of wild elephants dashed toward us as we were taking off at the Burma airdrome. The pilot managed to clear them by seven or eight feet."

DRASTIC STEPS TO 'CLEAR AIR' FOR RADIO

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—Drastic steps to "clear the air" by eliminating stations that disobey wave length assignments were announced by the Federal Radio commission today.

Stations not on authorized wave lengths by Aug. 15 will be denied new licenses then, Commissioner Bellows said. About 50 per cent of the nearly 700 stations are off their assigned wave lengths now, he added.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS—ABOUT SPORTS WEAR

By HEDDA HOYT
New York, July 26.—(UP)—If I were asked what the smartest colors for sportswear were, I should say "white or beige," either used singly or combined together. Although the great majority of women wear more colorful sports clothing, the woman of means and taste usually wears white, beige or a combination of the two tones this season.

One of the simplest and smartest sports costumes I have recently seen was worn by a New York society girl at Newport. This costume consisted of a smart little beige velvet jumper, white pleated skirt, white felt hat banded in beige ribbon, white shoes strapped in beige and nude-beige hose. At this same resort several smart women are wearing white coats trimmed in light beige fox fur. Entire white costumes worn with beige hats and stockings are numerous. Some of the younger girls are wearing white jacket suits with beige sweaters and hats.

White felt hats are numerous at all smart resorts. The vacation wardrobe cannot be complete without a white felt hat of simple smartness and although one has hats to match every colorful sports costume one never fails to also include a white model. For one thing, the white hat can be worn with any color. Another, it is a bit dressier than the more colorful hat. Since most felt shapes these days are narrow-brimmed affairs which require constant adjusting, it is best to select the white model with a wire-edged brim finished with ribbon brim banding as the wire holds the hat in shape.

This year the all-white shoe, or the white shoe trimmed in color, is again popular, although we seldom see the white shoe worn with white stockings. Nude or sunburned stocking shades are invariably worn with white shoes.

White fox furs are favored by younger girls for wear with pastel-hued sports frocks and suits. Older women seem to prefer the very light beige fox scarfs to white. Where one wears the beige for neckpiece accessories such as handkerchief, handbag, gloves and hat are liable to be in light beige tones.

Naturally I am vitally concerned about the voices of my players, so I always advise the one cigarette that I discovered many years ago that does not impair control of the subtlest vocal shadings or cause huskiness or harshness. I mean the 'Lucky Strike.' It is the player's best friend."

ACRES OF DIAMONDS

It seems a far cry from acres of diamonds to the "overalls job," but is it?

Some years ago a resourceful writer and speaker wrote "Acres of Diamonds," a story built around facts connected with the discovery of the South African diamond fields.

The story tells how a farmer in South Africa, wearying of his daily work on the farm, thought that success (measured in dollars as typified by diamonds) could only be found at a distance from his farm home. He sold his farm for a song and set forth in search of riches. After a far search in distant places, he found no riches, and returned to his old home town to die. And there he found his old farm a veritable "Acres of Diamonds."

In a similar way, the young man on the farm or in his home town looks longingly to distant fields where he dreams there lies "Acres of Diamonds." He often little realizes that the possibilities of his own job in overalls may be made to uncover acres of diamonds at his very threshold.

The acres of diamonds in his reach may consist of a happy job; successful not only when measured with the foot rule of dollars, but when measured with the better foot rule of his ability each day to do a better job efficiently.

Such a young man dons his overalls and gets busy in a line he likes. He prepares himself so that "preparedness meets opportunity," the key to success. On the farm he becomes a better farmer; in the garage he becomes a better mechanic; in the printing establishment he becomes a better printer; on building construction he becomes a better carpenter; in the electrical field he becomes a better electrician.

Training promotes efficiency; increased efficiency promotes happiness; and what is happiness but "Acres of Diamonds"?

Farm schools, business colleges and trade schools are founded to help people help themselves.

When Mr. Dunwoody left his millions to found the Dunwoody Institute, for training boys and men in trades and industries, he set up a monument not only to himself, but to the residents of the State, to be used by boys and men who desire industrial and mechanical training.

This institution is a gift to the residents of the State. Located in Minneapolis, it furnishes an opportunity to those boys and men who wish to train themselves for greater efficiency. Like the public school system of the State, it belongs to the people of the State, and is operated for their benefit.

All money received in the way of fees, is added to the returns received from the endowment, and is spent for further training.

An increasing number of boys and men come to Dunwoody from all over the State, attend from one to eight or nine months, and usually return to their own home town better qualified to carry on their regular work; better fitted to find the acres of diamonds which may lie near their own doorstep.

ANTI-ORIENTAL FEELING DECREASING

ANTAGONISM to citizens of Oriental parentage on the Pacific coast, already generally decreasing, now promises soon to become a practically negligible quantity, in the opinion of Dr. Elliot G. Mears, professor of International Trade at Stanford University.

"Most important of all," said the professor, "is the thought that immigration en masse from the Orient is a thing of the past. Once the Pacific coast feels certain that any incoming tide is not imminent, the situation of resident aliens and citizens of Oriental parentage will take a more favorable turn. This has been stated openly by leading Pacific coast statesmen."

Dr. Mears made his statements in a monograph laid before a meeting of an American group of sociologists. It dealt chiefly with American laws affecting Orientals.

In his resume of the laws affecting Orientals in America Dr. Mears pointed out that "first-generation Asiatic immigrants are ineligible to American citizenship." "American-born persons of Asiatic parentage," he said, "commonly referred to as the second generation, are all American citizens. Their actual, as well as their relative, numbers in the Chinese and Japanese groups are on the increase. To the second generation Oriental, China or Japan is a strange land. English is often the only language they can read and write. America is home and remains so, providing agreeable opportunities for making a living are made available."

The absence of any worth-while direction or information regarding vocational opportunities is regarded by Dr. Mears as the greatest handicap of the Oriental in America.

"The vocational problem for the American-born of Oriental parentage is serious because of their mere physical appearance," he said. "Therein lies the chief disability which faces the Oriental race on this side of the Pacific ocean."

Dr. Mears summarized the laws regarding Orientals thus: "Outside of restrictions as to land ownership the legal disabilities of Asiatic aliens in the Pacific coast states are strikingly few. Public employment, political right, hunting and fishing, carrying weapons, some restrictions as to licenses, et cetera tell the story, so far as state imposed restrictions go."

Under the treaty with Japan and the California Alien Land Law, Japanese in California are denied the right to acquire or possess directly or indirectly any interest in agricultural lands.

The patience of the Chinese under discriminatory legislation is contrasted with the more positive attitude of the Japanese who have made a custom of official protests.

Dr. Mears says that there is universal agreement that the nineteenth century hostility toward the Chinese has given way to a tolerant, kindly feeling, and that the prejudice against the Japanese, most marked from 1905 to 1925, has either practically disappeared or is quiescent.

NOTHING changes like fashions, and styles are ephemeral things at best, so all one can do is hope that a fickle Ford-and-otherwise-touring public, which last summer en masse adopted the eye-shade of our tennis-playing "Little Poker Face," will this year be tempted to discard it altogether and let its bobbed and barbed locks rumple in the breeze in true Lindy-like fashion.

While it may not be altogether an artistic triumph, it's bound to be an improvement that will make the Mohawk trail and the Lincoln highway less fearsome places this August.—Life.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died sewing for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality, and the Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; but Mary goes to New York to work.

CHAPTER VII

It hadn't been difficult securing a place to live. New York, Mary discovered, abounded with them. Little hall bedrooms with white iron cots and bare floors, with a chair or two, and the paper peeling in great scaly flakes from the corner above the bed. Landladies, too. Mary made her acquaintance with them. Thick bodies with hips that swelled broadly, and faces that peered at one with suspicion. "Rather young, aren't you, Miss?" one of them had asked, the one in whose palatial abode Mary finally settled. She had rented the room reluctantly, taking the six dollars Mary handed her with an air of doing so against her better judgment. It was a room rather better than most Mary had seen, and she had felt the need of settling somewhere before night.

"Working?" Still the inquisition, accompanied by a glance that took in every inch of her slim young person. "No," said Mary, "but I expect to before long." The answer to this was a look the interpretation of which was not difficult. It read:

"We don't allow young gentlemen to call upon you in your room."

"Hm. You'd better be, if you expect to stay here."

She pointed out the bathroom at the lower end of the dark hall, and explained that the pitcher and basin would be filled with water which was to be used for washing. Before closing the door and leaving Mary to herself, she stood with hand on hip and delivered herself of the following, still with those hard suspicious glances.

"We don't allow young gentlemen to call upon you in your room, and when in an emergency one does the door has to be left open three inches." Mary had a wild desire to laugh, which struggled above her bewilderment.

"And," she continued, "I don't allow any gongs on." There was a grim pressure placed on the words "gongs on," which led one to believe that all was not as innocent as you might believe from the sound of the words themselves. The door closed, and Mary was alone. She removed her close little hat, and threw it on the bed, then came to the mirror. The Mary in the mirror was revealed as a Mary with a bulging forehead and eyes that wavered. When she smiled at the vision, as she did, one side of her mouth ran crookedly up into her cheekbone. Which was decidedly not satisfying. "No encouragement there," she murmured, and turned to the window. From there was revealed a panorama in which the shadowy red tops of roofs and gaunt poles climbing feebly toward the heavens were predominant. Over toward the west there breathed a naive flush. On a clothesline stretching opposite from window to window a sparrow swung for an instant, then sped away.

She turned from the window, and gingerly tried the bed. Finding that though it squeaked and groaned in protest, it would hold, she let herself carefully down. The next instant she was up again, but the pillow was a virginal white. This time her breathing came easily. It was good to rest, and think. She was here. She had made her start. The city was anticipating her with eager hands, offering her gifts. Gifts of the gent, a demon with eyes that belched smoke, and hands agile with precious stuffs and glittering jewels which he thrust upon her. "They are all yours. Take them, Mary," and Mary reached forth eager hands which touched nothingness. Fairy stuffs, too fragile for the touch of human hands. Fairy stuffs made of gossamer and star-dust and the languor of the evening breeze. She slept, easily, far into the night.

At first the city exhilarated her. It seeped into her veins and turned them from blue to a glowing gold. It was a delight to rise when the first splashing were heard in the bathroom down the hall, when the cuffle of bedroom slippers slipped and doors opened and shut. There was the eager fluid of life in the body that leaped from beneath the covers in the early morning. She waited, usually, until the sound of footsteps could be heard descending the stairs, and those of the old gentleman next door in particular. He, she had discovered, left after the others. After, he went she would have the glory of the bathroom to herself. That was fun, too. Waiting for the bathroom to empty for Mary. "I shan't have that joy for long, though," she promised herself. For one of these mornings, and that very soon now, it had to be soon, she too would scuttle madly down the hall in her slippers, and fly back again, with towel over her arm and the cake of soap in her hand. That would be very soon now. There was still the exhilaration of slipping out into the grey cool of the morning, and joining the throngs that poured into the subways. There was still the feeling of security that remained with her, despite the negative responses to her search for work. Security of heart because of the felicity of purse. Synonyms with one was the other. And surely, one of these grey mornings, when the sun awoke with a great stretching and rearing of head, one of these grey mornings, someone would say "yes." It was bound to happen. It would happen. It must. And meanwhile there was the comfort, the sleek, well-fed comfort of her purse.

Mary was trying to put her knowledge of tennis to some good account, and was discovering its difficulty. "An amateur? I'm afraid that won't do." Names were what they sought, these portly department-store heads, and Mary had no name. No name that, emblazoned in large type above an ad, would draw young tennis enthusiasts. And amateurs were common. Their departments were filled. They were sorry if she cared to leave her name and address.

Mary cared to leave her name and address, left them eagerly. Trying to impress the disinterested personnel manager with her own peculiar adaptability for the job, an adaptability which was lacking in those vague hordes of competitors of whom the manager spoke with such familiarity.

Finished it with a flourish, Mary Sullivan. There. He would let her know. Yes, he would let her know. And Mary cut across Forty-second Street and up Fifth Avenue with the feeling that here was a good day's work, well done. She idled before the shop windows and breathed deep of the intoxicant that is the air of this one city in the world, then sauntered home, to wait. The telephone was in the hall, downstairs. Three rings meant the call was for her. So certain was she of some response that she sat on the lowest step one full morning with a newspaper in hand, alternately reading and looking up to berate the stolidness of the instrument that hung on the wall. That was the day after a manager had told her she was a sweet little girl, and it was a shame she couldn't get placed. But even that solicitude came to nothing. One day Mary suddenly discovered that she had been in New York three weeks, and after giving Mrs. Dolan the six dollars for the fourth week's board, there would remain very, very little. Not quite enough with which to last out another week. There followed a panic stricken moment when quite suddenly she longed for nothing with so much fierce intensity as she did for the comfort of Mrs. Tomlinson, and the security that was Wally. There was an impulse to run, which she had to restrain. It left her with white cheeks and a madly racing heart. The peculiar aura that had encircled her with the knowledge that though jobs weren't open, her purse was filled, that ease in which she had lain, was now snatched from her as by a ghoully hand. It was as if she were on a wide plain with no cover in sight to which she could run and hide. She was alone, and utterly defenceless. Unless she found something to do quickly. Oh, quickly. Anything at all would do. Anything at all. She raced down the stairs with mad speed. An afternoon paper. She couldn't afford to wait until morning came again for that would mean the loss of a entire day. Oh—quickly, Mary, quickly!

ANTI-ORIENTAL FEELING DECREASING

ANTAGONISM to citizens of Oriental parentage on the Pacific coast, already generally decreasing, now promises soon to become a practically negligible quantity, in the opinion of Dr. Eliot G. Mears, professor of International Trade at Stanford University.

"Most important of all," said the professor, "is the thought that immigration in mass from the Orient is a thing of the past. Once the Pacific coast feels certain that any incoming tide is not imminent, the situation of resident aliens and citizens of Oriental parentage will take a more favorable turn. This has been stated openly by leading Pacific coast statesmen."

Dr. Mears made his statements in a monograph laid before a meeting of an American group of sociologists. It dealt chiefly with American laws affecting Orientals.

In his resume of the laws affecting Orientals in America Dr. Mears pointed out that "first-generation Asiatic immigrants are ineligible to American citizenship." "American-born persons of Asiatic parentage," he said, "commonly referred to as the second generation, are all American citizens. Their actual, as well as their relative, numbers in the Chinese and Japanese groups are on the increase. To the second generation Oriental, China or Japan is a strange land. English is often the only language they can read and write. America is home and remains so, providing agreeable opportunities for making a living are made available."

The absence of any worth-while direction or information regarding vocational opportunities is regarded by Dr. Mears as the greatest handicap of the Oriental in America.

"The vocational problem for the American-born of Oriental parentage is serious because of their mere physical appearance," he said. "Therein lies the chief disability which faces the Oriental race on this side of the Pacific ocean."

Dr. Mears summarized the laws regarding Orientals thus: "Outside of restrictions as to land ownership the legal disabilities of Asiatic aliens in the Pacific coast states are strikingly few. Public employment, political right, hunting and fishing, carrying weapons, some restrictions as to licenses, et cetera tell the story, so far as state imposed restrictions go."

Under the treaty with Japan and the California Alien Land Law, Japanese in California are denied the right to acquire or possess directly or indirectly any interest in agricultural lands.

The patience of the Chinese under discriminatory legislation is contrasted with the more positive attitude of the Japanese who have made a custom of official protests.

Dr. Mears says that there is universal agreement that the nineteenth century hostility toward the Chinese has given way to a tolerant, kindly feeling, and that the prejudice against the Japanese, most marked from 1905 to 1925, has either practically disappeared or is quiescent.

FOR THE SUMMER TOURIST

NOTHING changes like fashions, and styles are ephemeral things at best, so all one can do is hope that a fickle Ford-and-otherwise-touring public, which last summer en masse adopted the eye-shade of our tennis-playing "Little Poker Face," will this year be tempted to discard it altogether and let its bobbed and barbed locks rumple in the breeze in true Lindy-like fashion.

While it may not be altogether an artistic triumph, it's bound to be an improvement that will make the Mohawk trail and the Lincoln highway less fearsome places this August.—Life.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—stender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died sewing for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Bobby. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality, and the Charity Department takes Bobby. Wally proposes; but Mary goes to New York to work.

CHAPTER VII

It hadn't been difficult securing a place to live. New York, Mary discovered, abounded with them. Little hall bedrooms with white iron cots and bare floors, with a chair or two, and the paper peeling in great scaly flakes from the corner above the bed. Landladies, too. Mary made her acquaintance with them. "Tuck bodies with hips that swelled broadly, and faces that peered at one with suspicion. "Rather young, aren't you, Miss?" one of them had asked, the one in whose palatial abode Mary finally settled. She had rented the room reluctantly, taking the six dollars Mary handed her with an air of doing so against her better judgment. It was a room rather better than most Mary had seen, and she had felt the need of settling somewhere before night.

"Working?" Still the inquisition, accompanied by a glance that took in every inch of her slim young person. "No," said Mary, "but I expect to before long." The answer to this was a look the interpretation of which was not difficult. It read:

"We don't allow young gentlemen to call upon you in your room."

"Um. You'd better be, if you expect to stay here."

She pointed out the bathroom at the lower end of the dark hall, and explained that the pitcher and basin would be filled with water which was to be used for washing. Before closing the door and leaving Mary to herself, she stood with hand on hip and delivered herself of the following, still with those hard suspicious glances.

"We don't allow young gentlemen to call upon you in your room, and when in an emergency one does the door has to be left open three inches." Mary had a wild desire to laugh, which struggled above her bewilderment.

"And," she continued, "I don't allow any gongs on." There was a grim pressure placed on the words "gongs on," which led one to believe that all was not as innocent as you might believe from the sound of the words themselves. The door closed, and Mary was alone. She removed her close little hat, and threw it on the bed, then came to the mirror. The Mary in the mirror was revealed as a Mary with a bulging forehead and eyes that wavered. When she smiled at the vision, as she did, one side of her mouth ran crookedly up into her cheekbone. Which was decidedly not satisfying. "No encouragement there," she murmured, and turned to the window. From there was revealed a panorama in which the shadowy red tops of roofs and gaunt poles climbing feebly toward the heavens were predominant. Over toward the west there breathed a mellow flush. On a clothesline stretching opposite from window to window a sparrow swung for an instant, then sped away.

She turned from the window, and gingerly tried the bed. Finding that though it squeaked and groaned in protest, it would hold, she let herself carefully down. The next instant she was up again, but the pillow was a virginal white. This time her breathing came easily. It was good to rest, and think. She was here. She had made her start. The city was anticipating her with eager hands, offering her gifts. Gifts of the gent, a demon with eyes that belched smoke, and hands

agile with precious stuffs and glittering jewels which he thrust upon her. "They are all yours. Take them, Mary," and Mary reached forth eager hands which touched nothingness. Fairy stuffs, too fragile for the touch of human hands. Fairy stuffs made of gossamer and star-dust and the languor of the evening breeze. She slept, easily, far into the night.

At first the city exhilarated her. It seeped into her veins and turned them from blue to a glowing gold. It was a delight to rise when the first splashing were heard in the bathroom down the hall, when the clogs of bedroom slippers clattered and doors opened and shut. There was the eager fluid of life in the body that leaped from beneath the covers in the early morning. She waited, usually, until the sound of footsteps could be heard descending the stairs, and those of the old gentleman next door in particular. He, she had discovered, left after the others. After he went she would have the glory of the bathroom to herself. That was fun, too. Waiting for the bathroom to empty for Mary. "I shan't have that joy for long, though," she promised herself. For one of these mornings, and that very soon now, it had to be soon, she too would scuttle madly down the hall in her slippers, and fly back again, with towel over her arm and the cake of soap in her hand. That would be very soon now. There was still the exhilaration of stepping out into the grey cool of the morning, and joining the throngs that poured into the subways. There was still the feeling of security that remained with her, despite the negative responses to her search for work. Security of heart because of the felicity of purse. Synonymous with one was the other. And surely, one of these grey mornings, when the sun awoke with a great stretching and rearing of head, one of these grey mornings, someone would say "yes." It was bound to happen. It would happen. It must. And meanwhile there was the comfort, the sleek, well-fed comfort of her purse.

Mary was trying to put her knowledge of tennis to some good account, and was discovering its difficulty. "An angel?" "I'm afraid that won't do." Names were what they sought, these portly department-store heads, and Mary had no name. No name that, emblazoned in large type above an ad, would draw young tennis enthusiasts. And amateurs were common. Their departments were filled. They were sorry if she cared to leave her name and address?

Mary cared to leave her name and address, left them eagerly. Trying to impress the disinterested personnel manager with her own peculiar adaptability for the job, an adaptability which was lacking in those vague hordes of competitors of whom the manager spoke with such familiarity.

Finished it with a flourish, Mary Sullivan. There. He would let her know? Yes, he would let her know. And Mary cut across Forty-second Street and up Fifth Avenue with the feeling that here was a good day's work, well done. She idled before the shop windows and breathed deep of the intoxicant that is the air of this one city in the world, then sauntered home, to wait. The telephone was in the hall, downstairs. Three rings meant the call was for her. So certain was she of some response that she sat on the lowest step one full morning with a newspaper in hand, alternately reading and looking to her to berate the stolidness of the instrument that hung on the wall. That was the day after a manager had told her she was a sweet little girl, and it was a shame she couldn't get placed. But even that solicitude came to nothing. One day Mary suddenly discovered that she had been in New York three weeks, and after giving Mrs. Dolan the six dollars for the fourth week's board, there would remain very, very little. Not quite enough with which to last out another week. There followed a panic stricken moment when quite suddenly she longed for nothing with so much fierce intensity as she did for the comfort of Mrs. Tomlinson, and the security that was Wally. There was an impulse to run, which she had to restrain. It left her with white cheeks and a maddening racing heart. A peaceful aura that had encircled her with the knowledge that though jobs weren't open, her purse was filled, that ease in which she had lain, was now snatched from her as by a ghoul's hand. It was as if she were on a wide plain with no cover in sight to which she could run and hide. She was alone, and utterly defenceless. Unless she found something to do quickly. Oh, quickly. Anything at all would do. Anything at all. She raced down the stairs with mad speed. An afternoon paper. She couldn't afford to wait until morning came again for that would mean the loss of an entire day. Oh—quickly, Mary, quickly!

The MAYTAG is Easily Adjusted to Your Height

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with built-in gasoline motor.

THROUGH adjustable legs, the Maytag is easily raised or lowered to suit your height. This is but one of the many Maytag features that makes washday easier and more comfortable.

Then there is the famous cast-aluminum tub, that keeps water hot for an entire washing—the tub that drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds after the washing is done.

Phone—

Use a Maytag next wash-day without obligation or expense. Wash big tubfuls in 3 to 7 minutes—wash even collar and cuff edges without hand-rubbing. Try the Maytag—If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Maytag dealers everywhere follow the standardized rule of sending a Maytag to a home to do a week's washing free, and without obligation of any kind. This is the way all Maytag Gyrofoam Washers are sold. The Maytag must sell itself solely upon its performance in the home. It must wash everything to your entire satisfaction. Must wash everything quicker, easier and cleaner than other washers. Must wash everything—even collars, cuffs and wristbands, without hand-rubbing. Must prove to you, in your own home, that it is the most helpful home-laundrying unit you have ever seen or used.

SHARKEY NOW SUFFERING FROM INTESTINAL HEMORRHOAGES

DOCTOR FINDS CONCUSSIONS OF THE GROIN

TELLS UNITED PRESS THAT HE IS "FEELING ALL RIGHT"

Boston, July 26.—(UP)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, has suffered "several hemorrhages" since he was knocked out in the seventh round of his fight with Jack Dempsey in New York Thursday night, Dr. Martin H. Spellman of St. Elizabeth's hospital here, said.

The manner in which the bout ended developed a controversy as to whether the final blows were foul.

Dr. Spellman said Sharkey visited his office Sunday, three days after the fight and asked to be examined. The doctor said he found evidence of several concussions of the groin, which might have resulted from a low blow.

"I also found clear evidence of intestinal hemorrhage. This might well have been caused by a blow in the abdomen or groin. Sharkey's condition did not appear serious, however."

Sharkey himself told the United Press that he was "feeling all right."

"You don't want to believe everything you hear," he said. "When I got back from New York the other day I told you I was feeling all right. I was and I still am, and any reports to the contrary are the bunk."

Doctor interviewed by the United Press were divided on the question of whether a low blow could have caused the intestinal hemorrhages.

One of New England's leading specialists, who asked that his name be withheld, expressed the opinion that such an injury could hardly have resulted from a blow on the abdomen or groin of an athlete in perfect condition.

CHICAGO SEEMS ANXIOUS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

Chicago, July 26.—When Tex Rickard comes to Chicago Thursday to discuss arrangements for a return fight between Champion Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey he will find little in the way of objection to holding the contest at Soldiers' Field stadium, it was indicated today.

Protests against allowing Dempsey to appear in the arena dedicated to world war dead have had little effect in official circles. Jack's war record, the principal basis of the objections, appears to be overbalanced in the estimation of authorities by benefits to be obtained if the match is brought here.

The city council today had passed a resolution favoring the bout with only four dissenting votes. Mayor William Hale Thompson announced he was still working actively to bring the bout here and Chairman John R. McLean of the state boxing commission is "for it."

While objections to allowing Dempsey to use the field were limited when the fight was discussed at the city council meeting, the protests nevertheless were violent.

Alderman John Chapman declared "It is a travesty to have him here fighting on Soldiers' Field for a world's championship—a man who refused to fight for his country."

Other aldermen pointed to Tunney's favorable service record as offsetting Dempsey's choice of work in a ship yard rather than join the army.

The other dissenting aldermen voiced the usual objection to fights involving large amounts of money, but they were overruled.

Rickard is expected here Thursday to discuss arrangements for the fight with George Getz, chairman of Mayor Thompson's fight committee, and other interested Chicagoans. Getz issued a statement at Mackinac Island where he had gone for a short vacation, asserting Rickard had definitely agreed to bring the fight here and had set the date tentatively as Sept. 15.

Rickard will deal with the mayor's committee only in arranging for the bout, it was indicated by Thompson.

"I warned Tex Rickard to beware of fixers of self-appointed promoters in making arrangements," the mayor explained. "We don't want to lose the fight because of what some unofficial interferer says or does. I asked Rickard to deal only with some Chicago official, preferably Getz."

ROSCOE DEFEATS BARRETT AFTER HARD BATTLE WITH SIMMS IN THE SEMI-FINALS

Bemidji, Minn., July 26.—Roscoe Fawcett of Breezy Point and Interlachen defeated Jimmy Barrett of Devils Lake, N. D., 3 and 2, to win the Birchmont International golf tournament here Sunday after being forced to go 19 holes in the semi-finals with Leigh Simms of Midland Hills in the forenoon. Barrett entered the finals by defeating Earle Hanson of Duluth, 6 and 4, in the semi-finals.

C. E. Hiller of Crookston won the first flight by defeating Ralph Little of Minneapolis, 4 and 3.

Harold Riddle, professional at Everett Point club, Lake Vermillion, copped the 72-hole medal play with a 291 total. Ray Croslin, Bemidji professional, lost second place to Lloyd Nelson of Esquimaux by missing a two-foot putt on the last hole. Nelson's total was 304 and Croslin's 305.

WESTERN TRIP, JUST FINISHED, SHOWED STAMINA

IF THEY ARE TO CRACK, THEY SHOULD HAVE CRACKED ON THAT TOUR

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 26.—Back to their own home lot where Dempsey and Sharkey met last week, the New York Yankees came today from the west for a romp leading up to their championship.

The American League pennant isn't in the bag yet but if the Yankees fail to finish first they can yell "foul" louder than Sharkey did.

The Yankees returned from their second western invasion, regarded as their most serious test of the season, with a lead of 13 games over the game, piddling Washington Senators.

If the Yankees are bound to crack, as some critics think they are, they should have cracked on that trip. Yet they won thirteen out of eighteen games—three out of six from Detroit, three out of four from Cleveland, three out of four from the White Sox and four straight from the Browns.

Not only do the Yanks appear to be a cinch for the pennant but they are heading consistently for several records, including runs scored, total hits, total bases, home runs, number of games won and number of shutouts.

It is almost certain that the Yankees will establish the greatest attendance record in history. They already have practically cinched a record at home and they made marks in almost every park around the circuit.

Mike Huggins, one of the most prominent disciples of the creed—"You can't get anything by claiming"—insisted with some petulance that he wasn't figuring on the pitcher for the series opener.

"We're not a good lead and I'm satisfied as far as that goes," Huggins said. "I can't understand why our fellows get so enthusiastic as to forget what almost happened last year. One bad slump and a couple of injuries to regular players could blow up that lead in a week and we're just getting into August. No, we're not in there yet."

After which, several of his boys yawned.

CANOEIST PADDLING ACROSS ENGLISH CHANNEL TODAY

Dover, July 26.—(UP)—A new conquest of the English channel appeared to be in progress today, but this time by a canoeist instead of a swimmer.

A French tug sighted off this port was believed to have been escorting a swimmer, but further investigation indicated that a canoeist was paddling with the vessel. A Frenchman named M. Carcigne left Cape Gris Nez, France, at 11:10 a. m. today, and it was possible that he had crossed the channel and was approaching the English coast.

MIKE MCTIGUE NOW NATION'S LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 26.—Mike McTigue today was recognized by the New York Boxing commission as light heavyweight champion. McTigue stepped into the shoes of Jack Delaney when the latter voluntarily forfeited the title to become a heavyweight.

Old Mike, grinning happily, indicated he would be a fighting champion. He offered to defend his title within 30 days if a match could be made.

Delaney was represented by Pete Rellly. He wanted permission for Delaney to fight Paulino Uzcudun at the Yankee stadium on Aug. 11 and the commission said it had no objection. The formality of presenting signed contracts must be gone through with, however. It probably will be done late today.

Philadelphia — Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, won a decision over Tommy Herman, Philadelphia; Matt Algie, Philadelphia, knocked out Tommy West Mahan, Trenton, in the tenth round.

GAME MARRED BY ERRORS AND LOOSE PLAYING; SWANSON IN FINE FORM

EVERY TOUCHED IN SECOND FOR SIX RUNS; N. E. AND "Y" CLASH TONIGHT

In a game marred by many errors and loose fielding, the South Side defeated the I. O. O. F. last evening by the score of 8 to 5. Swanson, who was in rare form, outpitched Avery and Fogelstrom, keeping the hits well scattered.

Avery was relieved from the mound in the second inning when the S. S. met his curves for six runs. The I. O. O. F. big inning came in the fifth when they scored three runs.

The N. E. and the Y. M. C. A. will clash tonight.

RAY KREMER "GROOVED ONE," ANDY REESE HITS

LATTER SLAMS IT AGAINST LEFT FIELD SCREEN FOR TECHNICAL HOME RUN

ENOUGH TO GIVE GIANTS 1 TO 0 VICTORY OVER PITTSBURGH PIRATES

(By United Press)
Ray Kremer of the Pirates, who engaged in a pitching duel with Larry Dugan of the Giants, took a chance and "grooved one" to Andy Reese, New York third baseman, in the seventh inning. The latter hit it against the left field screen for a technical home run. It was enough to give the Giants a 1 to 0 victory and force the Pirates to second place in the National League.

Aspirations of the Cardinals to catch up with the leaders in the National League received a sharp setback when Cincinnati administered a double defeat, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3. The Reds got 12 hits off Haines in the first game but were forced to go 10 innings to win. May held the Cards to 7 hits. In the second game Rehm for St. Louis and Luque for Cincinnati held the game scoreless until the seventh when the Reds scored all of their runs. The Cards tried to retaliate in the next inning but could only get three in their rally.

Dykes' home run in the thirteenth inning of yesterday's Athletics-Tiger game gave the former a 6 to 5 victory. Detroit scored three in the first and two in the fourth. The score was tied in the ninth after the Athletics had climbed up by the run-an-inning process.

Nick Collop, Cleveland outfielder, was called upon to pitch the eighth inning after the Boston Red Sox had hit Uhle and Grant for nine runs. Collop allowed three hits and the Braves scored one more. The result: Boston, 10; Cleveland, 7.

Kansas City, Mo.—Allowing only six scattered hits, Tom Sheehan, Kansas City pitcher, shutout Minneapolis here, 6 to 0. It was Sheehan's fourteenth victory and the record ties the mark set by Jimmy Zinn, leading pitcher of the Blues' staff.

St. Paul—St. Paul shutout Milwaukee here, 7 to 0. Walter Betts, winning pitcher, allowed seven scattered hits, and his support delivered five double plays in the nine innings.

Columbus, O.—Indianapolis made it three of four in the series by defeating Columbus here, 5 to 4. Meek or was knocked from the slab in the second and Zumbro who relieved him was bad in his opening stanza, giving Indianapolis a lead that was never overcome.

Louisville, Ky.—Louisville and Toledo staged a ten inning battle for the benefit of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis here, Toledo winning 10 to 6. Louisville blew up in the tenth frame.

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 26.—(UP)—Babe Ruth celebrated his return to his home grounds today by knocking out his 32nd home run of the season in the first game of a doubleheader between the Yanks and St. Louis Browns. The blow put him ahead of the his teammate, Lou Gehrig, in the home run race.

The homer was made in the first inning off Milton Gaston and scored Koenig ahead of the batter.

Ruth is well behind his record year of 1921, when he hit 59 home runs. In 1921 his 32nd home run came on July 11.

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 26.—(UP)—Babe Ruth hit his 32nd and 33rd home runs of the season today in the first game of a doubleheader between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns.

The second homer of the day came in the sixth inning, with Gaston pitching. It was a long drive into the right field bleachers. No one was on base.

Ruth's feat made an even 100 home runs hit by the Yankees this season.

Lou Gehrig, held to two singles in the third inning of the night cap.

Sad Sam Jones, former Yankee, pitched one to Gehrig that the first baseman put into the stand, scoring Ruth ahead of him.

SHARKEY NOW SUFFERING FROM INTESTINAL HEMORRHAGES

TELLS UNITED PRESS THAT HE IS "FEELING ALL RIGHT"

Boston, July 26.—(UP)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, has suffered "several hemorrhages" since he was knocked out in the seventh round of his fight with Jack Dempsey in New York Thursday night. Dr. Martin H. Spellman of St. Elizabeth's hospital here, said.

The manner in which the bout ended developed a controversy as to whether the final blows were foul.

Dr. Spellman said Sharkey visited his office Sunday, three days after the fight and asked to be examined. The doctor said he found evidence of several concussions of the groin, which might have resulted from a low blow.

"I also found clear evidence of intestinal hemorrhage. This might well have been caused by a blow in the abdomen or groin. Sharkey's condition did not appear serious, however."

Sharkey himself told the United Press that he was "feeling all right."

"You don't want to believe everything you hear," he said. "When I got back from New York the other day I told you I was feeling all right. I was and I still am, and any reports to the contrary are the bunk."

Doctor interviewed by the United Press were divided on the question of whether a low blow could have caused the intestinal hemorrhages. One of New England's leading specialists, who asked that his name be withheld, expressed the opinion that such an injury could hardly have resulted from a blow on the abdomen or groin of an athlete in perfect condition.

CHICAGO SEEMS ANXIOUS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

Chicago, July 26.—When Tex Rickard comes to Chicago Thursday to discuss arrangements for a return fight between Champion Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey he will find little in the way of objection to holding the contest at Soldiers' Field stadium, it was indicated today.

Protests against allowing Dempsey to appear in the arena dedicated to world war dead have had little effect in official circles. Jack's war record, the principal basis of the objections, appears to be overbalanced in the estimation of authorities by benefits to be obtained if the match is brought here.

The city council today had passed a resolution favoring the bout with only four dissenting votes. Mayor William Hale Thompson announced he was still working actively to bring the bout here and Chairman John Righeimer of the state boxing commission is "for it."

While objections to allowing Dempsey to use the field were limited when the fight was discussed at the city council meeting, the protests nevertheless were violent.

Alderman John Chapman declared "It is a travesty to have him here fighting on Soldiers' Field for a world's championship—a man who refused to fight for his country."

Other aldermen pointed to Tunney's favorable service record as offsetting Dempsey's choice of work in a ship yard rather than join the army.

The other dissenting aldermen voiced the usual objection to fights involving large amounts of money, but they were overruled.

Rickard is expected here Thursday to discuss arrangements for the fight with George Getz, chairman of Mayor Thompson's fight committee, and other interested Chicagoans. Getz issued a statement at Mackinac Island where he had gone for a short vacation, asserting Rickard had definitely agreed to bring the fight here and had set the date tentatively as Sept. 15.

Rickard will deal with the mayor's committee only in arranging for the bout, it was indicated by Thompson.

"I warned Tex Rickard to beware of fixers of self-appointed promoters in making arrangements," the mayor explained. "We don't want to lose the fight because of what some unofficial interferer says or does. I asked Rickard to deal only with some Chicago official, preferably Getz."

Bemidji, Minn., July 26.—Roscoe Fawcett of Breezy Point and International defeated Jimmy Barrett of Devils Lake, N. D., 3 and 2, to win the Birchmont International golf tournament here Sunday after being forced to go 19 holes in the semi-finals with Leigh Simms of Midland Hills in the forenoon. Barrett entered the finals by defeating Earle Hanson of Duluth, 6 and 4, in the semi-finals.

C. E. Hiller of Crookston won the first flight by defeating Ralph Little of Minneapolis, 4 and 3.

Harold Riddle, professional at Everett Point club, Lake Vermillion, topped the 72-hole medal play with a 291 total. Ray Croslin, Bemidji professional, lost second place to Lloyd Nelson of Esquimaux by missing a two-foot putt on the last hole. Nelson's total was 304 and Croslin's 305.

WESTERN TRIP, JUST FINISHED, SHOWED STAMINA

IF THEY ARE TO CRACK, THEY SHOULD HAVE CRACKED ON THAT TOUR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 26.—Back to their own home lot where Dempsey and Sharkey met last week, the New York Yankees came today from the west for a romp leading up to their championship.

The American League pennant isn't in the bag yet but if the Yankees fail to finish first they can yell "foul" louder than Sharkey did.

The Yankees returned from their second western invasion, regarded as their most serious test of the season, with a lead of 13 games over the game, plodding Washington Senators.

If the Yankees are bound to crack, as some critics think they are, they should have cracked on that trip. Yet they won thirteen out of eighteen games—three out of six from Detroit, three out of four from Cleveland, three out of four from the White Sox and four straight from the Browns.

Not only do the Yanks appear to be a cinch for the pennant but they are heading consistently for several records, including runs scored, total hits, total bases, home runs, number of games won and number of shutouts.

It is almost certain that the Yankees will establish the greatest attendance record in history. They already have practically cinched a record at home and they made marks in almost every park around the circuit.

Mike Huggins, one of the most prominent disciples of the creed "You can't get anything by claiming"—insisted with some petulance that he wasn't figuring on the pitcher for the series opener.

"We've got a good lead and I'm satisfied as far as that goes," Huggins said. "I can't understand why you fellows get so enthusiastic as to forget what almost happened last year. One bad slump and a couple of injuries to regular players could blow up that lead in a week and we're just getting into August. No, we're not in there yet."

After which, several of his boys yawned.

CANOEIST PADDLING ACROSS ENGLISH CHANNEL TODAY

Dover, July 26.—(UP)—A new conquest of the English channel appeared to be in progress today, but this time by a canoeist instead of a swimmer.

A French tug sighted off this port was believed to have been escorting a swimmer, but further investigation indicated that a canoeist was paddling with the vessel. A Frenchman named M. Carcigne left Cape Gris Nez, France, at 11:10 a. m. today, and it was possible that he had crossed the channel and was approaching the English coast.

MIKE MCTIGUE NOW NATION'S LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 26.—Mike McTigue today was recognized by the New York Boxing commission as light heavyweight champion. McTigue stepped into the shoes of Jack Delaney when the latter voluntarily forfeited the title to become a heavyweight.

Old Mike, grinning happily, indicated he would be a fighting champion. He offered to defend his title within 30 days if a match could be made.

Delaney was represented by Pete Reilly. He wanted permission for Delaney to fight Paulino Uzcudun at the Yankee stadium on Aug. 11 and the commission said it had no objection. The formality of presenting signed contracts must be gone through with, however. It probably will be done late today.

Philadelphia — Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, won a decision over Tommy Herman, Philadelphia; Matt Adigle, Philadelphia, knocked out Tommy West Mahan, Trenton, in the tenth round.

GAME MARRED BY ERRORS AND LOOSE PLAYING; SWANSON IN FINE FORM

AVERY TOUCHED IN SECOND FOR SIX RUNS; N. E. AND "Y" CLASH TONIGHT

In a game marred by many errors and loose fielding, the South Side defeated the I. O. O. F. last evening by the score of 8 to 5. Swanson, who was in rare form, outpitched Avery and Fogelstrom, keeping the hits well scattered.

Avery was relieved from the mound in the second inning when the S. S. met his curves for six runs. The I. O. O. F. big inning came in the fifth when they scored three runs.

The N. E. and the Y. M. C. A. will clash tonight.

RAY KREMER "GROOVED ONE," ANDY REESE HITS

LATTER SLAMS IT AGAINST LEFT FIELD SCREEN FOR TECHNICAL HOME RUN

ENOUGH TO GIVE GIANTS 1 TO 0 VICTORY OVER PITTSBURGH PIRATES

(By United Press)

Ray Kremer of the Pirates, who engaged in a pining duel with Larry Dorton of the Giants, took a chance and "grooved one" to Andy Reese, New York third baseman, in the seventh inning. The latter hit it against the left field screen for a technical home run. It was enough to give the Giants a 1 to 0 victory and force the Pirates to second place in the National League.

Aspirations of the Cardinals to catch up with the leaders in the National League received a sharp setback when Cincinnati administered a double defeat, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3. The Reds got 12 hits off Haines in the first game but were forced to go 10 innings to win. May held the Cards to 7 hits. In the second game and Rehm for St. Louis and Luque for Cincinnati held the game scoreless until the seventh when the Reds scored all of their runs. The Cards tried to retaliate in the next inning but could only get three in their rally.

Dykes' home run in the thirteenth inning of yesterday's Athletics-Tiger game gave the former a 6 to 5 victory. Detroit scored three in the first and two in the fourth. The score was tied in the ninth after the Athletics had climbed up by the run-inning process.

Nick Collop, Cleveland outfielder, was called upon to pitch the eighth inning after the Boston Red Sox had hit Uhle and Grant for nine runs. Collop allowed three hits and the Braves scored one more. The result: Boston, 10; Cleveland, 7.

Kansas City, Mo.—Allowing only six scattered hits, Tom Sheehan, Kansas City pitcher, shutout Minneapolis here, 6 to 0. It was Sheehan's fourteenth victory and the record ties the mark set by Jimmy Zinn, leading pitcher of the Blues' staff.

St. Paul—St. Paul shutout Milwaukee here, 7 to 0. Walter Betts, winning pitcher, allowed seven scattered hits, and his support delivered five double plays in the nine innings.

NORTH WOODS OF QUEBEC TO SEE WONDER WEDDING

BUD STILLMAN TO MARRY HIS LITTLE PAL, LENA WILSON

JOHN WILSON WILL GIVE HIS SISTER AWAY IN MARRIAGE

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Grand Anse, Que., July 26.—With all the uncertainties apparently cleared up, James (Bud) Stillman late this afternoon will take little Lena Wilson as his bride at a wedding such as these north woods never saw before.

Until nearly midnight last night no one, not even Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, mother of Bud, and guiding genius of this remarkable wedding which unites New York society and Quebec north woods, knew who would give away the bride, or whether Lena's mother and sisters would attend.

There also were unusual stories about Mrs. Stillman cutting off the credit of the Wilsons and ordering them from the house in La Tuque which they now occupy. But late last night Mrs. Wilson, surrounded by two of her children, John, a married son, and Belle, a daughter just a little younger than Lena, sat in the old-fashioned parlor of the house in La Tuque which is owned by the Stillmans, and occupied by the Wilsons, and cleared up all the uncertainties.

Mrs. Wilson, Belle, John and probably Mary and Edna, two other sisters of Lena, and most certainly Henry, an exuberant youth of nine years, will attend the wedding, and all its festivities, they collectively assured the United Press correspondent.

John will give his sister away in marriage.

Miss Belle, a full-figured, healthy, dimpled miss of less than 20 years, will be the bridesmaid.

Mrs. Wilson, who is short, of middle age and who has lived her entire life along the St. Maurice river, will carry out all the responsibilities of the bride's mother.

In addition to clearing up the uncertainties, the Wilsons went into considerable detail about their relation with the Stillman family, and the stories of discord which have been going around.

It is this way, said Mrs. Wilson last night, mixing broken English with French.

"I was born and raised on the St. Maurice river. My father was a French-Canadian, and my mother was Scotch with a little Irish in her blood. My father was a trader with the Hudson Bay Company. My husband—he is dead—was from the Orkney Islands.

"We lived on our place next to the Stillmans' place at Grand Anse, and we knew the Stillmans ever since they came there. Lena knew Bud since they were little bits of people.

"About four years ago, I and Lena and John and Belle and Isaac all went to work for Mrs. Stillman. We worked every summer for her. I was cook. I knew her and I knew her daughter, Anne, and Bud and Guy, and Alexander and all of them.

"It was just last summer that Bud and Lena began to like each other. I don't care. It's their business. Well, Lena said she was going to marry Bud, and that was all right. I like Bud. He always is a fine boy. We like him very much.

"Then Mrs. Stillman bought the house in La Tuque and she told me she wanted me to live in it and keep it as long as I lived, and she was going to live in it when she came here and was not at Grand Anse. So last fall I left the place on the St. Maurice next to the Stillmans, and came to La Tuque, and Lena went to New York to school. Mrs. Stillman wanted her to. I am not a Catholic. I'm a Scotch Presbyterian. But when we lived at Grand Anse there wasn't any school but the Catholic school for Lena to go to, so she went to Catholic school, and learned to be a Catholic.

"She was going to be married by a Church of England minister but then she changed her mind, and had to be married by a priest. That was her business, and it was all right with me.

"There was some argument about that but I didn't care.

"Then the Stillmans came up to Grand Anse, and they found that someone had gone into my house and taken all the furniture out of it. They thought I did it. But I didn't. But a week ago Sunday, Mrs. Stillman sent a man from New York down here and he told me to get out of this house right away.

"I said I wouldn't, and I'm still here. Mrs. Stillman wanted the wedding at my house at Grand Anse, and she told me to scrub it all up and I did, and it's all cleaned up. But the furniture is gone, and I don't know who got it."

Mrs. Wilson showed the correspondent the La Tuque house in which she is living. In the parlor is a modern Chesterfield set with overstuffed chairs, an elaborate

Lindy Gets A Life-Long Railroad Pass

THOUGH honors unceasing have been heaped upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, world-famous trans-Atlantic flyer, few honors probably will outlive the gold and enamel life-long railroad pass over the Canadian National Railways which was presented to him by Sir Henry Thornton, K. B. E., chairman and president of the Canadian system, on the occasion of the noted aviator's recent visit to Ottawa to attend Canada's Dia-

"See this," she said, "Mrs. Stillman sent it here for Christmas, and she pointed out the Chesterfield set."

"Oh, I don't know what all the trouble is, she continued. "I think she wanted me to have a great big wedding at my house on the St. Maurice, and I have no money for it. Even now, I have to work."

Mrs. Stillman, she said, pays her a salary to maintain the La Tuque house, but she is not certain that the salary will continue.

"Lena is happy, very happy," she said, "but she is not excited. She takes everything cool."

"I always hoped I would be bridesmaid," said Belle, Lena's sister. "Now I am going to be. I think it will be wonderful." She beamed and her pretty dimples showed alluringly as she spoke.

"I think Bud is fine. I've known him for a long time," she added.

John, the son, spoke up with words of affection for Bud, showing that whatever the difficulties between the Wilsons and the Stillmans may be they don't affect Bud and Lena.

Mrs. Wilson has never seen her daughter's wedding dress and Belle, who today is to be bridesmaid, has never seen her bridesmaid's gown. They were uncertain about who would be best man, but believe it would be Fowler McCormick, of Chicago.

It was revealed that this year, with the wedding approaching, Mrs. Stillman refused to employ any of Lena's sisters in her household.

She didn't want them working there any more, because Lena was going to get married, Mrs. Wilson said.

After the wedding all of the girls expect to go to work, probably in Montreal, she added. Late yesterday, Mrs. Stillman was considerably in the dark as to the Wilson's participation in the ceremonies, and her secretary, who received the United Press correspondent in Mrs. Stillman's behalf, spoke much of jealousies among Lena's sisters. But the smiling Belle at midnight last night certainly showed no trace of anything but joy.

Mrs. Wilson, on the other hand, seemed worried over her own future.

"I don't know what made her do all the things she has done," she said, speaking of Mrs. Stillman. "She may chuck me out of this house."

All the Wilsons agreed that Bud and Lena were very much in love. The honeymoon, they revealed, will be spent in Europe. The two will leave from Quebec on the first steamer after the wedding. Lena isn't much excited about going to Europe, Mrs. Wilson maintained. She said her daughter had changed but little during the last few months, which she has spent at a finishing school in New York, at Mrs. Stillman's direction.

At 1 a. m., today the vanguard of the wedding party began moving on Grand Anse. At that hour the train arrived from Montreal, bringing ten bag-pipers, 20 members of the Highlanders' band, and several guests. They made the Royal Hotel in La Tuque a merry place.

Early in the day the Wilsons will leave by automobile for Grand Anse. At the same hour a boat will leave Grande Mere, coming along the St. Maurice river, stopping at the River Hamlets to pick up guests, and bringing the New York guests who came to Grand Mere during the night. It will be a four-hour voyage up the river.

At 3 p. m., the wedding ceremony will be said by Rev. Father J. E. L'Amey, Cure of Grande Piles, a village on the river below Grand Anse, and the headquarters of the parish.

He is an old friend of Mrs. Stillman, and of Lena. It will be an out-of-doors ceremony, with the 500 guests gathered on the lawn, overlooking the broad, Blue river, and in front of the Great White House. Immediately thereafter the wedding feast will be served.

A cake, more than two feet high, frosted and decorated, will be cut, and quantities of the choicest dainties two chefs from New York have been able to prepare in three weeks of labor, will be served. The New York society people present will rub elbows with the folk from along the river.

In the evening the great celebration takes place with 500 guests dancing to the music of the bag-pipers

BUD STILLMAN TO MARRY HIS LITTLE PAL, LENA WILSON

JOHN WILSON WILL GIVE HIS SISTER AWAY IN MARRIAGE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Grand Anse, Que., July 26.—With all the uncertainties apparently cleared up, James (Bud) Stillman late this afternoon will take little Lena Wilson as his bride at a wedding such as these north woods never saw before.

Until nearly midnight last night no one, not even Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, mother of Bud, and guiding genius of this remarkable wedding which unites New York society and Quebec north woods, knew who would give away the bride, or whether Lena's mother and sisters would attend.

There also were unusual stories about Mrs. Stillman cutting off the credit of the Wilsons and ordering them from the house in La Tuque which they now occupy. But late last night Mrs. Wilson, surrounded by two of her children, John, a married son, and Belle, a daughter just a little younger than Lena, sat in the old-fashioned parlor of the house in La Tuque which is owned by the Stillmans, and occupied by the Wilsons, and cleared up all the uncertainties.

Mrs. Wilson, Belle, John and probably Mary and Edna, two other sisters of Lena, and most certainly Henry, an exuberant youth of nine years, will attend the wedding, and all its festivities, they collectively assured the United Press correspondent.

John will give his sister away in marriage.

Miss Belle, a full-figured, healthy, dimpled miss of less than 20 years, will be the bridesmaid.

Mrs. Wilson, who is short, of middle age and who has lived her entire life along the St. Maurice river, will carry out all the responsibilities of the bride's mother.

In addition to clearing up the uncertainties, the Wilsons went into considerable detail about their relation with the Stillman family, and the stories of discord which have been going around.

It is this way, said Mrs. Wilson last night, mixing broken English with French.

"I was born and raised on the St. Maurice river. My father was French-Canadian, and my mother was Scotch with a little Irish in her blood. My father was a trader with the Hudson Bay Company. My husband—he is dead—was from the Orkney Islands.

"We lived on our place next to the Stillmans' place at Grand Anse, and we knew the Stillmans ever since they came there. Lena knew Bud since they were little bits of people.

"About four years ago, I and Lena and John and Belle and Isaac all went to work for Mrs. Stillman. We worked every summer for her. I was cook. I knew her and I knew her daughter, Anne, and Bud and Guy, and Alexander and all of them.

"It was just last summer that Bud and Lena began to like each other. I don't care. It's their business. Well, Lena said she was going to marry Bud, and that was all right. I like Bud. He always is a fine boy. We like him very much.

"Then Mrs. Stillman bought the house in La Tuque and she told me she wanted me to live in it and keep it as long as I lived, and she was going to live in it when she came here and was not at Grand Anse. So last fall I left the place on the St. Maurice next to the Stillmans, and came to La Tuque, and Lena went to New York to school. Mrs. Stillman wanted her to. I am not a Catholic. I'm a Scotch Presbyterian. But when we lived at Grand Anse there wasn't any school but the Catholic school for Lena to go to, so she went to Catholic school, and learned to be a Catholic.

"She was going to be married by a Church of England minister but then she changed her mind, and had to be married by a priest. That was her business, and it was all right with me.

"There was some argument about that but I didn't care.

"Then the Stillmans came up to Grand Anse, and they found that someone had gone into my house and taken all the furniture out of it. They thought I did it. But I didn't. But a week ago Sunday, Mrs. Stillman sent a man from New York down here and he told me to get out of this house right away.

"I said I wouldn't, and I'm still here. Mrs. Stillman wanted the wedding at my house at Grand Anse, and she told me to scrub it all up and I did, and it's all cleaned up. But the furniture is gone, and I don't know who got it."

Mrs. Wilson showed the correspondent the La Tuque house in which she is living. In the parlor is a modern Chesterfield set with overstuffed chairs, an elaborate

Lindy Gets A Life-Long Railroad Pass

THOUGH honors unceasing have been heaped upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, world-famous trans-Atlantic flyer, few honors probably will outlive the gold and enamel life-long railroad pass over the Canadian National Railways which was presented to him by Sir Henry Thornton, K. B. E., chairman and president of the Canadian system, on the occasion of the noted aviator's recent visit to Ottawa to attend Canada's Dia-

"See this," she said. "Mrs. Stillman sent it here for Christmas, and she pointed out the Chesterfield set."

"Oh, I don't know what all the trouble is, she continued. "I think she wanted me to have a great big wedding at my house on the St. Maurice, and I have no money for it. Even now, I have to work."

Mrs. Stillman, she said, pays her a salary to maintain the La Tuque house, but she is not certain that the salary will continue.

"Lena is happy, very happy," she said. "But she is not excited. She takes everything cool."

"I always hoped I would be bridesmaid," said Belle, Lena's sister. "Now I am going to be. I think it will be wonderful." She beamed and her pretty dimples showed alluringly as she spoke.

"I think Bud is fine. I've known him for a long time," she added.

John, the son, spoke up with words of affection for Bud, showing that whatever the difficulties between the Wilsons and the Stillmans may be they don't affect Bud and Lena.

Mrs. Wilson has never seen her daughter's wedding dress and Belle, who today is to be bridesmaid, has never seen her bridesmaid's gown. They were uncertain about who would be best man, but believe it would be Fowler McCormick, of Chicago.

It was revealed that this year, with the wedding approaching, Mrs. Stillman refused to employ any of Lena's sisters in her household.

She didn't want them working there any more, because Lena was going to get married, Mrs. Wilson said.

After the wedding all of the girls expect to go to work, probably in Montreal, she added. Late yesterday, Mrs. Stillman was considerably in the dark as to the Wilson's participation in the ceremonies, and her secretary, who received the United Press correspondent in Mrs. Stillman's behalf, spoke much of jealousies among Lena's sisters. But the smiling Belle at midnight last night certainly showed no trace of anything but joy.

Mrs. Wilson, on the other hand,

"I don't know what made her do all the things she has done," she said, speaking of Mrs. Stillman. "She may chuck me out of this house."

All the Wilsons agreed that Bud and Lena were very much in love. The honeymoon, they revealed, will be spent in Europe. The two will leave from Quebec on the first steamer after the wedding. Lena isn't much excited about going to Europe, Mrs. Wilson maintained. She said her daughter had changed but little during the last few months, which she has spent at a finishing school in New York, at Mrs. Stillman's direction.

At 1 a. m., today the vanguard of the wedding party began moving on Grand Anse. At that hour the train arrived from Montreal, bringing ten bagpipers, 20 members of the Highlanders' band, and several guests. They made the Royal Hotel in La Tuque a merry place.

and to a dozen accordions and as many fiddles gathered from along the river. There will be more feasting and the finest of the wines will be opened.

The festival is to last all night long.

Ancient Samaria

Samaria at the time of our Lord's earthly ministry was the central province of Palestine, lying between Judea on the south and Galilee on the north. In more ancient times the country that came to be known as Samaria was the kingdom of Israel, composed of the Ten Tribes. The city of Samaria was the capital until the Ten Tribes were carried into captivity in the year 720 B. C.

COUNTY NURSE MONTHLY REPORT

Children's Clinic at Pequot Was Very Successful Reports
Miss Ingebritson

70 CHILDREN EXAMINED

Two Tuberculosis Clinics Were Held
With an Attendance
of 12

A very successful children's clinic was held at Pequot, Miss Thora Ingebritson, county nurse, reports in her monthly report for June. Dr. L. R. Critchfield, child specialist of St. Paul was the clinician and gave the mothers some excellent advice as to the care of their children. Seventy children were examined. Five Brainerd ladies assisted at the clinic. This clinic was made possible through the Crow Wing County Public Health Association which is financed by the sale of Christmas seals.

The report continues:

Total number of visits, 83.
Of this number, there were 48 instruction and demonstration; 3 investigation; and 32 miscellaneous.

One patient, a twelve-year old boy was accompanied home from the University Hospital where an operation for cataract had been performed. Before going to the hospital the boy was practically blind. By having the operation and refraction his eye-sight was restored.

Two children were accompanied to the State Hospital for Crippled Children.

Two operations for removal of tonsils were arranged and performed.

Three patients were accompanied to their doctors.

Two applications were sent to the University Hospital.

Three visits were made with Miss Applebee, State Board of Health, to patients having venereal diseases. Arrangements were made for treatments.

One talk was given to a Mother's club meeting.

Two tuberculosis clinics were held with an attendance of twelve, four old and eight new cases.

THREE COMPLETE 10 YEARS OF SERVICE

Miss Cecil Kampmann Chief Telephone Operator Has Served
Public 15 Years

ALL HAPPY AT WORK

Personality and Type Taken Into Consideration in Employment of Operators

Three telephone employees of the Brainerd branch of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company have completed over ten years of service for the company and are as happy over their positions today as they were when they first started.

Brainerd's chief operator, Miss Cecil Kampmann has completed 15 years of public service while Miss Ann Peterson and Mrs. Drucilla Elling have completed 11 and 10 years of service respectively.

Mrs. Elling has spent all ten years in Brainerd as an operator and supervisor which position she is holding at the present time. Miss Peterson has also spent her 11 years as an operator in Brainerd. It was she who as night operator and on her own initiative has rendered valuable service to merchants and property owners by notifying them of fires that were discovered at night.

Miss Kampmann started as an operator in 1912 at Dubuque, Ia., where after three years she was transferred to Decorah, Ia., as chief operator. After serving five years in this capacity she was transferred to Brainerd on August 1, 1922 as evening chief operator and one year later to chief operator which position she is holding at the present time. As chief operator Miss Kampmann is responsible for the efficiency and the kind of service given by operators, for it is she who hires and teaches them to serve with a smile. Her first duty is to choose the right kind of girls for operators, girls who learn quickly and have a pleasing personality. This girl naturally attracts the type of girls that will reflect the high standards built up by this organization.

After choosing the right type of girl, Miss Kampmann must train them for their work, teaching them not only the mechanical part but the spirit of service as well. Once a month she takes a peg count when all calls for the day are tabulated by numbers. By means of these records, she is able to distribute her working force in such a way as to maintain the highest efficiency throughout the day whether the load is light or heavy. The peg count also enables her to distribute them evenly and have each operator handle her share of calls.

Isn't it?

RIDERS OF BLINDS GIVEN SENTENCE

Chisholm Men Rode Rods to Seattle, Wash., and Return in Three Weeks

GIVEN 30 DAYS

N. P. Special Officers Unite in Keeping "Free Riders" Off Trains

Riding the blinds is an offense for which all who are apprehended will be prosecuted stated Special N. P. Officer Carl Jacobson this morning in explaining that the special N. P. officers were putting on a campaign to keep all "free riders" off trains and particularly to keep them out of the Brainerd district.

This morning two men were arraigned in municipal court on the charge of "stealing rides" on the N. P. railway. They were given 30 days in jail without option of fine.

The men, Joe Ogenobich and George Aho were returning to their home in Chisholm after riding the rods from Seattle, Wash. The two made the trip to Seattle and return in three weeks without paying rail fare.

EDGE PUTS OUT ITS FASTEST FOUR

Now on Display at Rosko Brothers Garage, Local Dealers of Dodge Cars

PRICES ARE LOWERED

Built With Distinctive Beauty and Completeness of Custom Built Autos

The Dodge Motor Co. is bringing out what it claims is the fastest line of four cylinder cars in America, entirely new in every way. Prices range between $855.00 and $975.00 levels so far below those at which Dodge Brothers cars have always sold that the success of the new line seems assured from the start. Car models of the new type are now on display at Rosko Brothers garage.

Dodge Brothers have been a major factor in the industry since their first car was built in 1914. The car became so popular that within an unthinkably short time the company's sales mounted to third in the industry. Less than six weeks ago Dodge Brothers brought out their remarkable new line of sixes and within a month had it established on a production basis equal to that of many large companies which have been making sixes for years.

Built with the distinctive beauty and completeness of appointment that characterizes custom-built cars, the new line is of the type that should sell readily on appearance as well as performance. The fact that the cars are capable of going 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline, at average touring speed, should also add greatly to their popularity.

Initial production will embrace three body types, a four-door sedan, a cabriolet roadster and a coupe. Only the sedan is available for delivery now but within a very short time the roadster and coupe will be in dealers' hands.

The new car appears to be as large as the former four cylinder Dodge. Interior body dimensions are particularly impressive and the seating accommodations are more than ample for comfort. Due to the smaller diameter of the wheels the cars fairly hug the ground, giving a greater safety factor at the high speeds which they are capable of making.

The top of the sedan stands 70-3-8 inches above the ground whereas the former sedan measured 73-25-32 inches. Even with this reduction in height there is more head room in the new sedan. The distance from the back of the front seat to the pedals and to the steering wheel, the two dimensions which are probably most important to drivers, are the same as in the former very roomy Dodge Brothers sedan. The seats are wide, soft and comfortable.

The famous new and powerful "124" motor furnishes power for the new cars. This motor was developed by Dodge Brothers engineers after years of experimentation and is considered the best and most advanced four cylinder motor the company ever built. On the brake block test it develops 40 horsepower, which is one horsepower for every 68 pounds weight of the new sedan. When it is considered that most cars have from 97 to 135 pounds of weight for each horsepower the explanation of the great speed of the new cars is apparent. The light weight per horsepower shows up in dashy acceleration in traffic, in tremendous pulling power on the steepest hills and in a straightaway speed on the open highways that permits quick pulling away from all fours and many sixes.

Combined with these important advantages is still another feature. The gear ratio has been changed so that the engine speed is slower than before, permitting sustained higher speeds without vibration.

Even when the new motor was put into the larger line of cars May 1st, it gave 20 per cent quicker acceleration, 15 per cent more power and a 20 per cent saving in gasoline consumption. In the new and lighter cars these advantages are even more pronounced.

The steering gear ratio of the new line is 13 to 1, making the cars exceptionally easy to handle in

One Really Should Have a Change of Bathing Suits

A woman is hardly content to have but one frock during the season. Why would it not be as essential to have a change of bathing suits?

This season of the year, when one appears so many days of the week at the beach, it would be a pleasure to have a change of bathing costume.

These smart all wool suits made by Jantzen or Pelton are the kind which are not alone good looking, but being made from all wool yarns have the necessary warmth and service to make a suit satisfactory in every way. The perfect fit, the elasticity, the bright colors make them most attractive.

Children's Clinic at Pequot Was
Very Successful Reports
Miss Ingebritson

70 CHILDREN EXAMINED

Two Tuberculosis Clinics Were Held
With an Attendance
of 12

A very successful children's clinic was held at Pequot, Miss Thora Ingebritson, county nurse, reports in her monthly report for June. Dr. L. R. Critchfield, child specialist of St. Paul was the clinician and gave the mothers some excellent advice as to the care of their children. Seventy children were examined. Five Brainerd ladies assisted at the clinic. This clinic was made possible through the Crow Wing County Public Health Association which is financed by the sale of Christmas seals.

The report continues:

Total number of visits to homes, 51.

Total number of visits, 83.
Of this number, there were 48 in instruction and demonstration; 3 investigation; and 32 miscellaneous.

One patient, a twelve-year old boy was accompanied home from the University Hospital where an operation for cataract had been performed. Before going to the hospital the boy was practically blind. By having the operation and refraction his eye-sight was restored.

Two children were accompanied to the State Hospital for Crippled Children.

Two operations for removal of tonsils were arranged and performed.

Three patients were accompanied to their doctors.

Two applications were sent to the University Hospital.

Three visits were made with Miss Applebee, State Board of Health, to patients having venereal diseases. Arrangements were made for treatment.

One talk was given to a Mother's club meeting.

Two tuberculosis clinics were held with an attendance of twelve, four old and eight new cases.

THREE COMPLETE 10 YEARS OF SERVICE

Miss Cecil Kampmann Chief Telephone Operator Has Served
Public 15 Years

ALL HAPPY AT WORK

Personality and Type Taken Into Consideration in Employment of Operators

Three telephone employees of the Brainerd branch of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company have completed over ten years of service for the company and are as happy over their positions today as they were when they first started.

Brainerd's chief operator, Miss Cecil Kampmann has completed 15 years of public service while Miss Ann Peterson and Mrs. Drucilla Elling have completed 11 and 10 years of service respectively.

Mrs. Elling has spent all ten years in Brainerd as an operator and supervisor which position she is holding at the present time. Miss Peterson has also spent her 11 years as an operator in Brainerd. It was she who as night operator and on her own initiative has rendered valuable service to merchants and property owners by notifying them of fires that were discovered at night.

Miss Kampmann started as an operator in 1912 at Dubuque, Ia., where after three years she was transferred to Decorah, Ia., as chief operator. After serving five years in this capacity she was transferred to Brainerd on August 1, 1922 as evening chief operator and a year later to chief operator which position she is holding at the present time. As chief operator Miss Kampmann is responsible for the efficiency and the kind of service given by operators, for it is she who hires and teaches them to serve with a smile. Her first duty is to choose the right kind of girls for operators, girls who learn quickly and have a pleasing personality. This girl naturally attracts the type of girls that will reflect the high standards built up by this organization.

After choosing the right type of girl, Miss Kampmann must train them for their work, teaching them not only the mechanical part but the spirit of service as well. Once a month she takes a peg count when all calls for the day are tabulated by numbers. By means of these records she is able to distribute her working force in such a way as to maintain the highest efficiency throughout the day whether the load is light or heavy. The peg count also enables her to distribute them evenly and have each operator handle her share of calls.

Isn't it?

RIDERS OF BLINDS GIVEN SENTENCE

Chisholm Men Rode Rods to Seattle, Wash., and Return in Three Weeks

N. P. Special Officers Unite in Keeping "Free Riders" Off Trains

Riding the blinds is an offense for which all who are apprehended will be prosecuted stated Special N. P. Officer Carl Jacobson this morning in explaining that the special N. P. officers were putting on a campaign to keep all "free riders" off trains and particularly to keep them out of the Brainerd district. This morning two men were arraigned in municipal court on the charge of "stealing rides" on the N. P. railway. They were given 30 days in jail without option of fine.

The men, Joe Ogenobich and George Aho were returning to their home in Chisholm after riding the rods from Seattle, Wash. The two made the trip to Seattle and return in three weeks without paying rail fare.

LODGE PUTS OUT ITS FASTEST FOUR

PRICES ARE LOWERED

Built With Distinctive Beauty and Completeness of Custom Built Autos

The Dodge Motor Co. is bringing out what it claims is the fastest line of four cylinder cars in America, entirely new in every way. Prices range between $855.00 and $975.00 levels so far below those at which Dodge Brothers cars have always sold that the success of the new line seems assured from the start. Car models of the new type are now on display at Rosko Brothers garage.

Dodge Brothers have been a major factor in the industry since their first car was built in 1914. The car became so popular that within an unthinkably short time the company's sales mounted to third in the industry. Less than six weeks ago Dodge Brothers brought out their remarkable new line of sixes and within a month had it established on a production basis equal to that of many large companies which have been making sixes for years.

Built with the distinctive beauty and completeness of appointment that characterizes custom-built cars, the new line is of the type that should sell readily on appearance as well as performance. The fact that the cars are capable of going 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline, at average touring speed, should also add greatly to their popularity.

Initial production will embrace three body types, a four-door sedan, a cabriolet roadster and a coupe. Only the sedan is available for delivery now but within a very short time the roadster and coupe will be in dealers' hands.

The new car appears to be as large as the former four cylinder Dodge. Interior body dimensions are particularly impressive and the seating accommodations are more than ample for comfort. Due to the smaller diameter of the wheels the cars fairly hug the ground, giving a greater safety factor at the high speeds which they are capable of making.

The top of the sedan stands 70-3-8 inches above the ground whereas the former sedan measured 73-25-32 inches. Even with this reduction in height there is more head room in the new sedan. The distance from the back of the front seat to the pedals and to the steering wheel, the two dimensions which are probably most important to drivers, are the same as in the former very roomy Dodge Brothers sedan. The seats are wide, soft and comfortable.

The bodies are of unusually rugged construction, built of steel, staunchly reinforced to give great structural strength.

The famous new and powerful "124" motor furnishes power for the new cars. This motor was developed by Dodge Brothers engineers after years of experimentation and is considered the best and most advanced four cylinder motor the company ever built. On the brake block test it develops 40 horsepower, which is one horsepower for every 68 pounds weight of the new sedan. When it is considered that most cars have from 97 to 135 pounds of weight for each horsepower the explanation of the great speed of the new cars is apparent. The light weight per horsepower shows up in flashy acceleration in traffic, in tremendous pulling power on the steepest hills and in a straightaway speed on the open highways that permits quick pulling away from all fours and many sixes.

Combined with these important advantages is still another feature. The gear ratio has been changed so that the engine speed is slower than before, permitting sustained higher speeds without vibration.

Even when the new motor was put into the larger line of cars May 1st, it gave 26 per cent quicker acceleration, 15 per cent more power and a 20 per cent saving in gasoline consumption. In the new and lighter cars these advantages are even more pronounced.

The steering gear ratio of the new line is 13 to 1, making the cars exceptionally easy to handle in

One Really Should Have a Change of Bathing Suits

A woman is hardly content to have but one frock during the season. Why would it not be as essential to have a change of bathing suits?

These smart all wool suits made by Jantzen or Felton are the kind which are not alone good looking, but being made from all wool yarns have the necessary warmth and service to make a suit satisfactory in every way. The perfect fit, the elasticity, the bright colors make them most attractive.

"OVER 20 YEARS"

SOME COW IDEAS

Now, Molly owned a cow she had named Mahalia.

She had named the cow after a dear little friend of her's whose name was Mahalia.

Molly felt it was a great compliment to name the cow after her friend and the friend thought it was a compliment, too.

You have to be pretty nice to have a pet animal named after you.

Molly loved Mahalia. She was a great pet even though she was a big, big cow.

Mahalia could go anywhere at all. She was in front of the house at the present moment and you know all cows don't have such opportunities.

So here she was on the front lawn and Molly had come out to see her and she could talk! She could say all the things she had always wanted to say.

First of all she thanked Molly for all her devotion and she told Molly how she had eaten snowed under and cowplop and then all of a sudden had found she could speak.

"It's beautiful, Mahalia dear," Molly said. "Now you must tell me what you think about everything."

"Everything," said Mahalia, slowly, chewing as she spoke. "That's a good deal."

"Well, let me see, I've thought a lot of cow thoughts as I've sat around and watched the automobiles go flying down the road."

"I've thought how styles changed, and how satisfied cows always were with the good old-fashioned ways."

"We haven't thought our lives different from the way they were."

"There was one day when I wandered down to the little schoolhouse at the three corners."

"Oh, I remember," cried Molly. "I couldn't think why you were going so far away."

"Yes, it was quite a trip for me, and I'm not one for traveling, but I

Molly Loved Mahalia.

went down and took a look inside, and I knew I could never sit at one of those silly little desks.

"I couldn't put up one leg (I haven't any arms) and say:

"Please, teacher, I know the answer to that question!"

"That's what the children were doing."

"Then I took a look back of the house where your bedroom is one day. I always wanted to tell you about it."

"Oh, isn't it a darling room?" asked Molly.

"Maybe so," said Mahalia, "but I don't think so very much of it. I mean it wouldn't do for me. I would rather have the pasture or the barn any day, or any night."

"Your bed is so absurdly small."

"It's a big bed," said Molly.

"Not according to my cow point of view," said Mahalia.

"There were chairs in your room, too, such as I couldn't put my front foot in without upsetting."

"And there wasn't a scrap of grass in your room. You had nothing but a carpet."

"I meant to tell you, if ever I could, that I'm so glad you loved me as you did, but never asked me to share your room with you as you've asked other little girls to do."

Molly laughed.

"Tell me some more of your thoughts," she urged.

"Well, I've always thought," continued Mahalia, "that it was nice I was a cow."

"I've thought that was nice, too," said Molly.

"I never wanted dresses or shoes or stockings, and when I went in wading I didn't have to be afraid I'd get my skirts wet as I held them up—for I had none to hold up."

"And I've enjoyed being lazy."

"I could always lie in the pasture and feel the warmth of the sunshine, yet not too much, for there was always shade from the trees."

"I never had to do chores."

"I never had to go to the village to shop. I'd not want to go and shop for I wouldn't know what to get."

"I'm a lucky cow."

Not Lonesome, but Missed

When grandma returned home from her visit to us, Roger accompanied her for a week's stay. But the little had become homesick toward the end of the time, for grandma had no playthings whatever about the house. "Lonesome, dear?" she asked one evening, seeing him gaze longingly out of the window.

"I'm all right, dwamma," he gulped hastily. "I was jus' thinkin' how my scooter an' new bike mus' miss me."

NOTICE OF TERMINATION OF CONTRACT

WHEREAS, Gerard & Kimball, Inc., a corporation, entered into a contract in writing with the undersigned, Charles M. Drew, dated January 23rd, 1924, wherein and whereby said Drew agreed upon certain terms and conditions whereby he was to convey to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc., those certain premises situated in Crow Wing County, Minnesota, described as follows: (to-wit: Government Lots 4, 5 and 6, Section 2, in Township One Hundred and Thirty-Five (135) North of Range Twenty-nine (29) West of the Fourth Principal Meridian except roads and thoroughfares and a strip of land across the same one hundred (100) feet wide needed to said Minnesota and International Railway by deed filed in the office of the Register of Deeds of said County, and to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc., and wherein and whereby said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. agreed to pay to said Charles M. Drew the purchase price of said premises, Sixteen Thousand ($16,000.00) Dollars in installments as follows: Two Hundred ($200.00) Dollars on October 1st, 1924, and Two Hundred ($200.00) Dollars on the first day of each month thereafter until fully paid, and to pay to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. the interest on said purchase price from July 1st, 1924, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable monthly on the first day of each month after July 1st, 1924, until said purchase price should be fully paid and to pay the tax and ad valorem property taxes for the years 1924 and subsequent years and all special assessments or installments thereof, not included in the taxes prior thereto, at least three days before any penalties should attach thereto for non-payment, and

WHEREAS the prompt and full performance of each of said agreements of said Gerard & Kimball, Inc., namely, to pay said purchase price and to pay interest upon deferred payments thereof and to pay said taxes and assessments, was in each case, in and by said contract, specifically made a condition upon which the said Drew agreed to convey said premises to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. and in the conditions of said contract to be by them kept and performed, which default would, in the failure of said Gerard & Kimball, Inc., to perform their said agreement to pay said purchase price and in their failure to perform their said agreement to pay said taxes and assessments upon said property which have heretofore become due and which has heretofore become due has not been paid and still remains long past due and unpaid and much of the deferred payments of said purchase price has never been paid, and still remains long past due and unpaid, and no part of the taxes for the years 1924, 1925 or 1926 or of any of the special assessments therewith included in the taxes for said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. or by anyone on their behalf, although all the same long since became due and payable, and the same would have long since attached thereto.

NOW THEREFORE Notice is hereby given that said contract and the conditions therein made a condition of the sale of said premises to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. in which default has been made and pay the costs of service of this notice.

ROY ROGERS IN APPEAL TO STATE SUPREME COURT

St. Paul, July 26.—(UP)—The state supreme court today received notice of the appeal of Roy Rogers from Judge John W. Boerner's decision to quash the writ of habeas corpus which was obtained by the prisoner to prevent his extradition to Huron, S. D., for bank robbery.

Three others arrested with Rogers in a raid here were recently taken to Huron for the same offense charged. They are Pat Hanley, P. T. Driscoll and Roy Shea.

Rogers is now held in the Ramsey county jail pending action of the supreme court.

STUCK TO HIS PLANE AFTER ENGINE EXPLODED

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—Lt. C. C. Champion, naval flier, who fell seven miles to safety in an airplane after possibly setting a world's altitude record, stuck to his plane after the engine exploded to keep it from falling into the capital's business district, he disclosed today.

Four times his tiny Wright engine caught fire as it fell and each time he "blew out" the flames by side-slipping into a tail spin to throw a rush of air directly at the hot engine in the nose of the machine.

Bureau of standards officials today sought to verify his record, a difficult task because one of his barographs was wrecked by the blaze and the other badly jarred by the tremendous vibration. He said his altimeter registered 47,000 feet—nine miles of altitude and more than 6,000 feet above the present record, held by Callizo of France, when he started down. The heads of seven of the nine cylinders of his radial 425-horsepower, air-cooled motor, blew out and he came down "dead," volplaning into a cornfield.

Now, Molly owned a cow she had named Mahalia.

She had named the cow after a dear little friend of her's whose name was Mahalia.

Molly felt it was a great compliment to name the cow after her friend and the friend thought it was a compliment, too.

You have to be pretty nice to have a pet animal named after you.

Molly loved Mahalia. She was a great pet even though she was a big, big cow.

Mahalia could go anywhere at all. She was in front of the house at the present moment and you know all cows don't have such opportunities.

So here she was on the front lawn and Molly had come out to see her and she could talk! She could say all the things she had always wanted to say.

First of all she thanked Molly for all her devotion and she told Molly how she had eaten sneezeweed and cowslip and then all of a sudden had found she could speak.

"It's beautiful, Mahalia dear," Molly said. "Now you must tell me what you think about everything."

"Everything," said Mahalia, slowly, chewing as she spoke. "That's a good deal."

"Well, let me see, I've thought a lot of cow thoughts as I've sat around and watched the automobiles go flying down the road."

"I've thought how styles changed, and how satisfied cows always were with the good old-fashioned ways."

"We haven't wanted our lives different from the way they were."

"There was one day when I wandered down to the little schoolhouse at the three corners."

"Oh, I remember," cried Molly. "I couldn't think why you were going so far away."

"Yes, it was quite a trip for me, and I'm not one for traveling, but I went down and took a look inside, and I knew I could never sit at one of those silly little desks.

"I couldn't put up one leg (I haven't any arms) and say:

"Please, teacher, I know the answer to that question!"

"That's what the children were doing."

"Then I took a look back of the house where your bedroom is one day. I always wanted to tell you about it."

"Oh, isn't it a darling room?" asked Molly.

"Maybe so," said Mahalia, "but I don't think so very much of it. I mean it wouldn't do for me. I would rather have the pasture or the barn any day, or any night."

"Your bed is so absurdly small."

"It's a big bed," said Molly.

"Not according to my cow point of view," said Mahalia.

"There were chairs in your room, too, such as I couldn't put my front foot in without upsetting."

"And there wasn't a scrap of grass in your room. You had nothing but a carpet."

"I meant to tell you, if ever I could, that I'm so glad you loved me as you did, but never asked me to share your room with you as you've asked other little girls to do."

Molly laughed.

"Tell me some more of your thoughts," she urged.

"Well, I've always thought," continued Mahalia, "that it was nice I was a cow."

"I've thought that was nice, too," said Molly.

"I never wanted dresses or shoes or stockings, and when I went in wading I didn't have to be afraid I'd get my skirts wet as I held them up—for I had none to hold up."

"And I've enjoyed being lazy."

"I could always lie in the pasture and feel the warmth of the sunshine, yet not too much, for there was always shade from the trees."

"I never had to do chores."

"I never had to go to the village to shop. I'd not want to go and shop for I wouldn't know what to get."

When grandma returned home from her visit to us, Roger accompanied her for a week's stay. But the little lad became homesick toward the end of the time, for grandma had no playthings whatever about the house.

"Lonesome, dear?" she asked one evening, seeing him gaze longingly out of the window.

"I'm all right, dwamma," he gulped hastily. "I was jus' thinkin' how my scooter an' new bike mus' miss me."

WHEREAS, Gerard & Kimball, Inc., a corporation, entered into a contract in writing with the undersigned, Charles M. Drew, dated January 25th, 1924, wherein and whereby said Drew agreed upon certain terms and conditions therein expressed to convey to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. the purchase of all of said premises situated in Crow Wing County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Government Lots 1 and 6, Section 2, Township One Hundred and Thirty-Five (135) North of Range Twenty-nine (29) West of the Fourth Principal Meridian except road and thoroughfares and a strip of land across the same one hundred (100) feet wide located in the Minnesota and International Railway by deed filed in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Crow Wing County on August 8th, 1908, and therein recorded in Book 21 at page 157, and wherein and whereby said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. agreed to pay to said Charles M. Drew the sum of $100,000 ($100,000) Dollars on the first day of each month thereafter until fully paid, and to pay to said Drew interest upon all deferred payments of said purchase price from July 1st, 1924, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable monthly on the 1st day of each month after July 1st, 1924, until said purchase price should be fully paid and to pay to said Charles M. Drew for the year 1924 and subsequent years and all special assessments or instalments thereof, not included in the taxes prior thereto at least three days before any penalties should attach thereto for non-payment, and

WHEREAS the prompt and full performance of each of said agreements of said Gerard & Kimball, Inc., namely, to pay said purchase price and to pay interest upon all deferred payments thereof, and to pay said taxes and assessments, was in each case, in and by said contract, specifically made a condition upon which the said Drew agreed to convey said premises to said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. and whereas default has been made by said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. in the conditions of said contract to be by them and performed, which default consists in the failure of said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. to perform their said agreement to pay said purchase price and in their failure to perform their said agreement to pay said taxes and assessments upon said property which have heretofore become due and whereas much of said purchase price has not been paid and still remains long past due and unpaid and much of said purchase price has become due upon the deferred payments of said purchase price has never been paid, and still remains long past due and unpaid for the years 1924, 1925 or 1926 or of any of the special assessments thereof.

NOW THEREFORE Notice is hereby given that said contract and the conditions therein expressed to be performed by said Gerard & Kimball, Inc. or someone on their behalf shall comply with said conditions in which default has been made and pay the costs of service of this notice.

Dated July 19th, 1927.

ROY ROGERS IN APPEAL TO STATE SUPREME COURT

St. Paul, July 26.—(UP)—The state supreme court today received notice of the appeal of Roy Rogers from Judge John W. Boerner's decision to quash the writ of habeas corpus which was obtained by the prisoner to prevent his extradition to Huron, S. D., for bank robbery.

Three others arrested with Rogers in a raid here were recently taken to Huron for the same offense charged. They are Pat Hanley, P. T. Driscoll and Roy Shea.

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—Lt. C. C. Champion, naval flier, who fell seven miles to safety in an airplane after possibly setting a world's altitude record, stuck to his plane after the engine exploded to keep it from falling into the capital's business district, he disclosed today.

Four times his tiny Wright engine caught fire as it fell and each time he "blew out" the flames by side-slipping into a tail spin to throw a rush of air directly at the hot engine in the nose of the machine.

Bureau of standards officials today sought to verify his record, a difficult task because one of his barographs was wrecked by the blaze and the other badly jarred by the tremendous vibration. He said his altimeter registered 47,000 feet—nine miles of altitude and more than 6,000 feet above the present record, held by Callizo of France, when he started down. The heads of seven of the nine cylinders of his radial 425-horsepower, air-cooled motor, blew off and he came down "dead," volplaning into a cornfield.
